The Season

By JAMES PARMELEE RICHARDSON

DARTMOUTH REACHES THE TOP OF THE LADDER

In the fall of 1882, the first Harvard-Dartmouth football game was played. The score was Harvard 53, Dartmouth 0. The Dartmouth, in its next issue, with a dogmatic assurance, which it has not entirely outgrown, announced "Football is Dead," and said, "If there is any other game that Dartmouth can play better than football, it would be well to encourage it."

So, in the characteristic Dartmouth fashion, started the climb from nowhere to the peak, culminating after forty-three years of epic struggle, marked with many an episode which "olim meminisse juvabit," in the splendidly successful season of 1925.

And yet, in early September, when the Field awoke from its summer sleep, the prospects were none too rosy. From the undefeated team of 1924 were missing such reliables as Captain Bjorkman, Hall, Leavitt, and Whitaker, not to mention a number of lesser lights. Moreover, Dooley, the brilliant quarterback, was not in college; and just before the opening of the season, "Flash" Fallon, Dooley's capable replacement, was obliged to undergo an operation which put him out of football for the season.

So Coach Hawley and his assistants faced the problem of filling the positions of end, center, halfback, fullback, and worst of all, quarterback, and of meeting one of the most exacting schedules which had ever confronted a Dartmouth team. Men of less courage and resourcefulness might have been discouraged; but the Hawley lexicon does not contain that word.

As has become customary, the Norwich Cadets furnished the curtain raiser. Their pluck and snap, the cheering of their entire student-body, the "Delta Alpha" accompaniment, all conspire to make this game a most attractive one. The cadets were outweighed, and had hard luck in the matter of injuries, and the 59-0 verdict does not give an adequate idea of the plucky struggle they waged against overwhelming odds.

"Sage was as effective a man as the gridiron ever sees."

Hobart "came out of the West" the next Saturday, an unknown quantity. They presented a snappy, well-coached team which kept Dartmouth on its toes every minute to gain a 34-0 verdict. They apparently liked the game, too; and before they left town were signed up for a return engagement in 1926.

University of Maine was overwhelmed by a 56-0 score. In this game, with a wet ball, the Dartmouth "overhead attack" began to show signs of its coming greatness. The Maine team, though containing some excellent individual players, was nonplussed by the versatility of the Green, and "Cuddy" Murphy, one of their coaches, is said to have remarked that he did not know so many things could be done with a football.

In a near-blizzard, Dartmouth snowed Vermont under, 50-0. The weather was so bad, and the Vermont team so weak, that the game was a disappointment, and furnished no real line on Dartmouth's ability.

So Dartmouth again went "on to the Stadium" an unknown quantity. After a most unpromising start, in which Dartmouth was very ragged, and Harvard scored with a field goal by Captain Cheek, the Green gradually found itself; and as touchdown succeeded touchdown, the old "grads" in the stands went wild.

Big headlines the next day told the story of 32-9, the largest score in our history against Harvard. It became evident to all that another great Hawley machine was in the making, and that in the Sophomore, "Bob" McPhail, the quarterback problem was in a fair way to be solved. McPhail played this game, as he did all the following ones, under the handicap of a broken finger on his right hand, strapped stiffly to its neighbor.

Dartmouth caught a Tartar in Brown. How familiar this sounds! Captain Parker could not start the game on account of a foot injury; and the whole team seemed lethargic. But this does not do justice to the vigor of the Brown opposition. Themselves badly handicapped by injuries, with green men in several line positions, they played like men inspired; and the sheer speed of their backfield, led by their star, Keefer, cut down the efficiency of our forward passing game. Both of our touchdowns came as a result of blocked kicks; and Brown was deprived of the fruits of a brilliant offence when an off-side penalty against Captain Stifler cost her a touchdown. Dartmouth was the better team, at that, but only a little better, and Dartmouth supporters greeted the final whistle with undisguised relief.

Cornell at Hanover! With the memory of that 32-7 licking in 1923 by no means erased by the brilliant victory of 1924 at the Polo Grounds! The great exhibition of modern football which this game produced deserves a chapter by itself. It was as though Dartmouth began where she left off in the game of 1924; dazzling play after play, by no means all on the Dartmouth side, left the spectators gasping.

At the end of the first quarter the score was Dartmouth 14, Cornell 13, Dartmouth's speed having been fairly matched by Cornell's strength. But this was Dartmouth's day, and in the second quarter, McPhail opened the throttle wide, and the Dartmouth machine responded like one man. Oberlander, Lane, Tully, and Sage made football history fast. Brilliant runs and passes followed each other as fast as the signals could be called. Cornell fought all the way, and at this stage was not playing poor football, but Dartmouth was simply irresistible. The second quarter was good for four touchdowns; and the second half, three more.

"Lane made a splendid showing in every game."

Oberlander reached the height of stardom; there was nothing he could not do; one run of fifty yards for a touchdown was almost unanimously voted by his teammates as the most brilliant individual play of the season.

Romeyn Berry, the Cornell graduate manager, said after the game, with characteristic humor and good sportsmanship, "The Cornell outfield was weak."

We hope to see many more Dartmouth football teams gain splendid victories; but we never expect to witness a more spectacular and brilliant exposition of the possibilities of modern football than this.

Scarcely had exclamations of the Cornell game subsided before Dartmouth took the train for Chicago for its first intersectional game since the memorable victory over Georgia at Atlanta in 1921. No Dartmouth football team had appeared in any part of the Middle West for more than twenty years; and the Chicago alumni made this the occasion of a gathering and a celebration which all but surpassed the famous "Pow Wow" of the previous year.

The record of the Chicago team indicated that it was tremendously strong on defence; and it was argued by the football writers that if any team in the country could stop the Dartmouth offence, it would be the boys coached by the clever veteran Stagg. It looked like the old conundrum "what happens when the irresistible meets the impenetrable;" and this situation, added to the East-West argument which ran strong all the season, gave the game great interest and filled Stagg Field to overflowing.

Dartmouth cut loose with another exhibition of versatile and brainy offence almost, if not quite, equal to the previous Saturday; and she needed everything she had; for the Chicago team, smarting under cruel and undeserved newspaper gibes directed against it and its great coach, Stagg, football's "grand old man," made a fine bid for victory.

It was not supposed to have a very formidable offence, but the justly celebrated "Five Yards McCarthy," and still more a halfback, Kernwein, whom the Dartmouth players will tell you to a man was the best back they played against all the year, made things most uncomfortably lively for the Dartmouth linemen and ends.

The final score was Dartmouth 33, Chicago 7; and in rolling up those 33 points, Dartmouth had scored more against Chicago than all her antagonists of the earlier season combined, a fair index to the power of the Green offence.

Such was the fitting climax of a season which may fairly be called a "Championship," that title being generously and almost unanimously conceded to Dartmouth by the army of football critics.

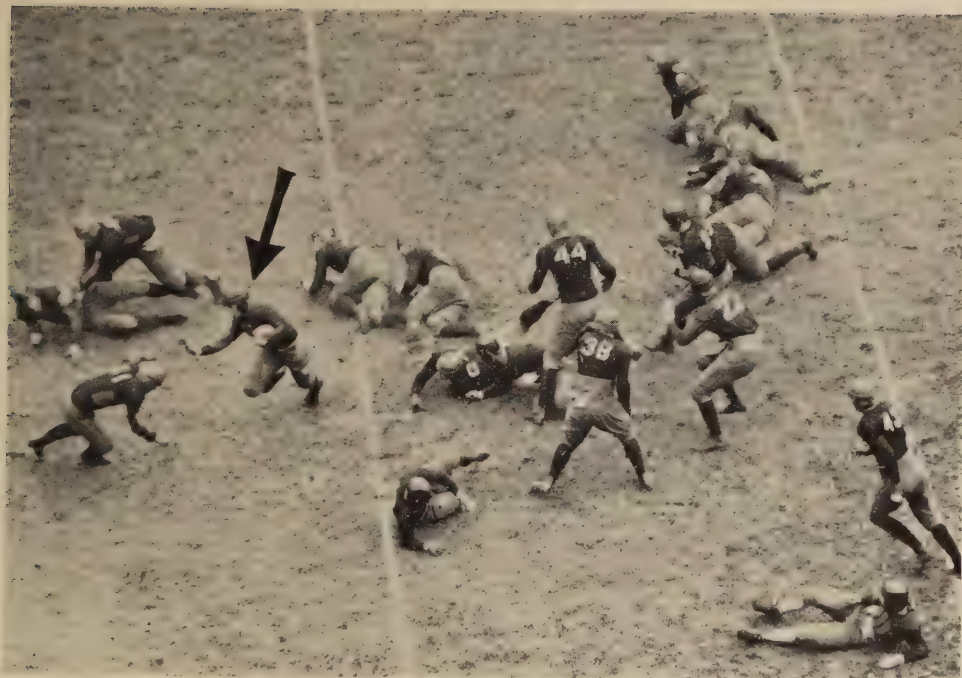

Oberlander gained unanimous "All American" recognition; Diehl and Tully were on ninety per cent of the fictitious teams; and Captain Parker,

Tully started the rolling up of "the largest score in our history against Harvard."

who has proven himself throughout the season to be an ideal Captain, was only a stride behind. Lane made a splendid showing in every game; McPhail carried the heaviest burden of them all in surprising fashion; Sage was as picturesque and effective a figure as the gridiron ever sees. But there has been enough—perhaps too much—said about the individual stars. This review is a tribute to the wonderful team-play and the team-spirit which brought at last Success; and brought it in a way of which every Dartmouth man may be entirely proud.

And not only is the success great, but it is a splendid challenge to the future.

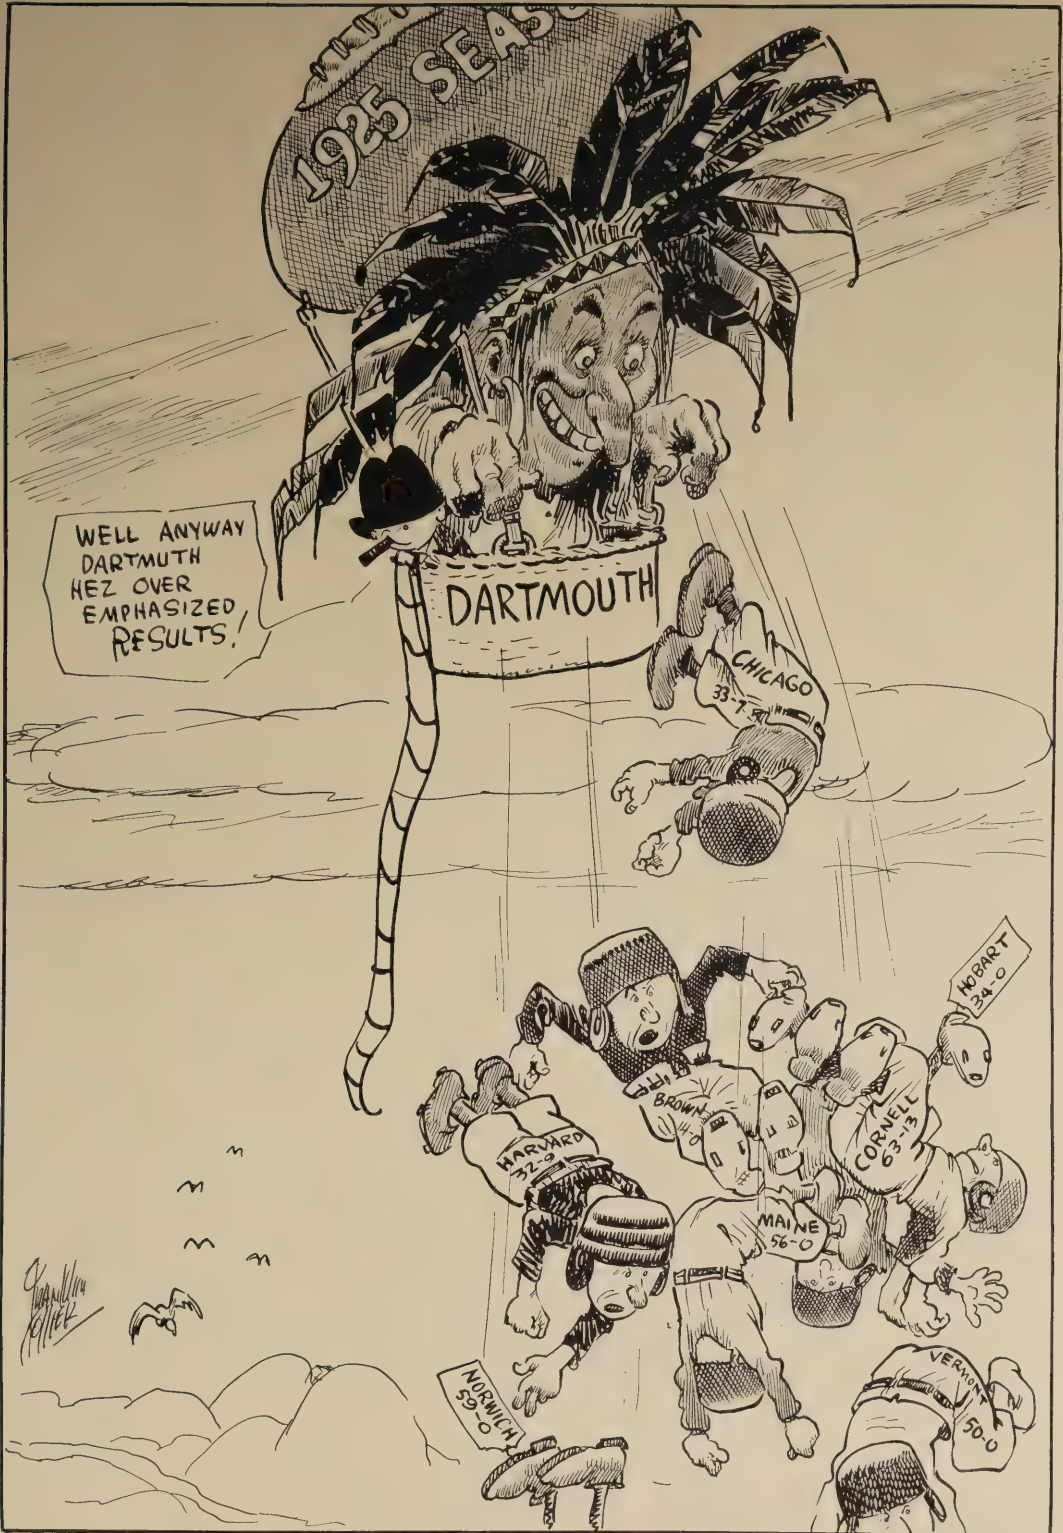

“Oberlander reached the height of stardom; there was nothing he could not do.”

NATHAN KUHNS PARKER

Weight, 192; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1926; Position, Tackle

“Nate” captained one of the greatest teams in Dartmouth history. He is a Phi Beta Kappa man, and will represent Dartmouth next year as Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. As a freshman he could tackle anything, and he has done that very thing ever since. In proven himself always a capable leader, and worthy of the respect and admiration which all Dartmouth men have for him.

his sophomore year he was injured, and as a result kept from his letter. He is one of the best linemen Dartmouth ever had. In whatever endeavor he has been interested, whether scholastic or athletic, he has

GEORGE HARRISON ALLEN, JR.

Weight, 190; Height, 6 ft. 1½ in.; Class, 1926; Position, Tackle

At Lynn Classical High School he was a good football player, but when he turned up for grid work under Sid Hazelton on the freshman team he found college football even in the freshman stage considerably different. Yet, from a scrub on the freshman team, from an awkward, slow-moving youngster, he was able to work his way into Dartmouth athletic glory and a Varsity football D as a junior. And as a senior, getting a chance to work at tackle in the big Cornell and Chicago games of last fall, he showed that Dartmouth had nothing finer.

GEORGE CHAMPION

Weight, 188; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1926; Position, Guard.

He had guts and fight or whatever you care to term that stuff that works no matter what the opposition. Anybody willing to take the punishment he did will make good later on in life. Two years unable to make the team, he came through as a senior. George came to Dartmouth from San Diego High School, California.

JOSHUA ALBERT DAVIS

Weight, 183; Height, 5 ft. 10 in.; Class, 1927; Position, Center.

He prepped at Exeter before coming to Dartmouth. His freshman year was spent in the infirmary at least as far as football went. The loss of a year under Sid Hazelton kept him off the team as a sophomore, but he arrived last year. As a junior, he developed into a great passer. Norm Crisp thinks there is none better and we agree with him after watching the unerring accuracy of those passes he sent to the backfield. He was the apex of Dartmouth success. "Josh" started the ball going, and best of all, he has another year in which to do things.

CARL HERMAN DIEHL

Weight, 205; Height, 6 ft. $\frac{1}{4}$ in.; Class, 1926; Position, Guard.

"Dutch" hails from Chicago. It was he who led the famous swinging gate interference. As a guard, you never would have given the big fellow a chance to outleg "Obie," Lane, and McPhail to the end of a line. But he did it, and what a deal "Dutch" gave them. He made the football grade as a freshman, and was a regular in both junior and senior years.

ALBERT THOMAS FUSONIE

Weight, 180; Height, 5 ft. 11 in.; Class, 1928; Position, End.

Just "Al" from Boston Latin School—awkward, big, slow, but a real fighter. He made the freshman football team as a tackle and when they wanted ends on the varsity last year, he was shifted to the wing. Cornell always will remember him. His leaping catch of that forward pass when surrounded by the enemy was one of the high spots of the season. As he has two more years of football under Jesse Hawley we have fond hopes of what he will bring forth. "Al" has the stuff.

CHARLES LAWRENCE HARDY

Weight, 193; Height, 6 ft. 2 in.; Class, 1927; Position, Tackle.

Charles Lawrence Hardy. Since he started playing football at Dartmouth, he has moved from end to tackle and back again. He too was slow, and was awkward while learning the principles of the game, but last year he mastered them so well that he appeared in nearly every contest and did great things. He is hard as they make them, and how he could break up an interference. He is another who hails from Exeter.

JOHN HENRY HOLLERAN

Weight, 188; Height, 6 ft. $\frac{1}{4}$ in.; Class, 1927; Position, Tackle.

Boston Latin was his finishing school. It did a good job on him. He made good as a freshman tackle and hopped right onto the varsity wagon in his sophomore year. Last fall he was the victim of more tough accidents than any fellow whom we know of. He got into the big games, though, and has another year to make up for the tough breaks Fortune dealt him.

NEWMAN MONTROSS HORTON

Weight, 186; Height, 5 ft. 10 in.; Class, 1927; Position, Fullback.

He played football four years for Drum Hill High School before he came to college. At Dartmouth, after freshman year, he had to buck Larry Leavitt for a job. Of course, Larry was good. He had to be good or "Hooker" would have had the fullback's position. When Leavitt dropped out, Hooker stepped in. And he stepped so well that he has been chosen captain for next year. He has played a consistently good game throughout his college career and can be counted on for strengthening the team next year.

MYLES JOSEPH LANE

Weight, 175; Height, 5 ft. 11 in.; Class, 1928; Position, Halfback.

He comes from Melrose where he made all sorts of athletic teams, football, baseball, and hockey. He did the same thing at Dartmouth as a freshman and last fall was one of the greatest sharers of some of those famous passes. He plays a brilliant game and is one of Dartmouth's best team men.

ROBERT HAWKINS LOOMIS

Weight, 175; Height, 5 ft. 11 in.; Class, 1926; Position, Fullback.

"Bob" was not brilliant, but he stuck to his job and kept trying, with the result that he earned his letter in his senior year. Anybody who was able to earn his varsity D last fall deserves extra credit. There was certainly a crowd trying for places.

ROBERT BRUCE McPHAIL

Weight, 181; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1928; Position, Quarterback.

"Bob" is a Somerville boy, but he had a year of football at Exeter. He was captain of his freshman football team and that is proof enough that he made the grade. As a sophomore, he stepped into Dooley's shoes, and what he did is ancient history now. "Bob" had speed, weight and courage. He had a good head, and he has two years of Dartmouth football coming.

HAROLD TURNER MARSHALL

Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 11 in.; Class, 1926; Position, Quarterback.

"Hal" is small and he wanted to be an end. He had little chance of getting into the game. Then Dartmouth needed a substitute quarterback. He asked for the chance, got it, and now has his varsity D. Proof enough there that he measured up to the requirements.

ANDREW JAMES OBERLANDER

Weight, 197; Height, 5 ft. 11½ in.; Class, 1926; Position, Halfback.

Of course he made the freshman team and then came up to the varsity. He was a tackle until somebody felt that his kicking and passing ability would make him a real triple threat. Then he went into the backfield, with the result that he was put on every All-American team, at the end of the season. Last year was, of course, his very best. When it comes to football, as in everything else, he has no weak points.

JOHN PHILLIPS

Weight, 185; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1928; Position, Tackle.

“Johnnie” is an Andover man, and was an outstanding player on his freshman team. It was he who relieved Captain Parker, and he did this in an excellent fashion. He is big and has ability. He learned a lot last year, and will prove very valuable next year with Parker gone.

EDWARD MAXWELL REECE

Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 9 in.; Class, 1928; Position, Halfback.

“Eddie” had trouble getting anywhere last year because Oberlander and Lane were around, but he will prove to be a valuable man to “Jess” next year. While he may be small and light, he is mighty fast and shifty. He showed particular ability in the forward-passing game last fall.

WINFIELD FAIRBANKS ROBINSON

Weight, 175; Height, 6 ft. 1½ in.; Class, 1926; Position, Halfback.

"Win" is a Newtonville man. He is a strong punter and added much to Dartmouth's strength in this field, during the past season. Although he was out because of injuries during part of the season and did not get into all of the games, he made the most of his opportunities when he did.

HERBERT RUBIN

Weight, 200; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1927; Position, Guard.

"Herb" is a New Yorker and a worker. He was rather slow and awkward as a freshman, but he had the fight to go out and do extra work during the winter and spring. He improved himself so much that he made the team as a guard last fall. He will be still better next fall, you can be sure of that.

HENRY AUGUSTUS SAGE

Weight, 162; Height, 5 ft. 8 in.; Class, 1927; Position, End.

"Heinie" is small and light, but he has been the outstanding end defensively, in the past two years of Dartmouth football. He is always where you want him when you want him. He is a real fighter, and he did remarkably fine playing for Dartmouth last fall.

ARTHUR CARLETON SMITH

Weight, 190; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1926; Position, Guard.

"Art" has had more tough luck because of injuries than any other man on the team. He was injured just before the Cornell game, and it was this that gave Rubin his big chance. Smith was a substitute during his sophomore year, but came up rapidly during his junior year, and was a first string man. Although he was out of the game a lot, he showed his worth as a player. "Art" comes from Minneapolis, and he was a valuable man on Dartmouth's famous team.

CHARLES ROBERT STARRETT

Weight, 180; Height, 6 ft. 1½ in.; Class, 1926; Position, Fullback.

"Charlie" will always be remembered by us as the man who intercepted a forward pass in the Cornell game last fall, and ran for a touchdown. For three years he had been trying to make the grade, then got his chance, seized it, and you know the rest. He came from Worcester Academy.

JOHN PRESTON STRAIGHT

Weight, 175; Height, 6 ft.; Class, 1926; Position, End.

"Jack" runs true to form. He knows the shortest distance between two points on a football field, and generally gets there. But he waited until his senior year to show his best football ability. Wish he were going to be back at Dartmouth next year.

GEORGE CHANDLER TULLY

Weight, 175; Height, 5 ft. 10 in.; Class, 1926; Position, End.

"Mike" did not quite make a letter in his sophomore year, but he more than made up for it as a junior and as a senior. He was nerveless, and was one of the big reasons why our machine ran so well last year. He was a great handler of the forward pass. Were it not for the alphabet we would put him up among the first, as the men who chose the All-American teams did. He certainly deserved the recognition that they gave him.

Review of the 1929 Freshman Football Season

At the opening of its season it seemed that the Freshman football team was going to be one of the best in years. These indications proved true. The team started its season with a victory over Clark School. This was followed by victories over the Middlebury Freshmen, Dean Academy, the strong Exeter team, and the Brown Freshmen. The 1929 team decisively defeated Troy Conference Academy in its last home game. In the final game of the season the Princeton yearlings defeated the team, 7-0. This score was made in the early moments of the game when Princeton, by a strategic offense of line plunging and forward passing, carried the ball across the line. From this point on, neither team was able to score.

The 1929 team ran up a total of 153 points to its opponents' 19. Captain Foster, Black, and Terrio were the outstanding members of the team and will make a strong bid for the varsity eleven next year.

The 1925 Baseball Season

Starting the season with eight veteran players, Coach Tesreau developed a team which later proved to be one of the best teams in the history of Dartmouth. The race with Pennsylvania for intercollegiate honors was keen; but Penn played one more game than the Green and gained the championship. Only five games were lost during the entire season, two of which were on the Southern trip, when the team had had no outdoor practice.

As the season progressed, it was discovered that Coach Tesreau had developed three excellent pitchers, Edwards, Fleet, and Comerford. The backstop men, Picken and Dey, were taken from the 1927 freshman squad. Captain Bjorkman occupied his old position in center field, while Harris continued to hold down the initial sack. Hudgins and Stanley played shortstop and outfield respectively, and Stevens was moved from behind the plate to third base, replacing Fox, who moved into the infield. The new members of the team were Michelini at second base, Elliott at left field, and Owl at right field.

On March 27 the team left for its annual Southern trip and played Virginia at Charlottesville the next day. Edwards, pitching the entire game through a cold driving snow, practically won it himself. The two games with Oglethorpe in Atlanta were essentially pitching battles. In the first of these, Comerford started in the box, but Duplin's relief pitching in the last of the twelve innings clinched the game for Dartmouth. In the second Bjorkman pitched, and Oglethorpe failed to score.

Of the remaining games of this trip, the first game with the University of Georgia proved to be the most interesting. Bjorkman and Fleet pitched, and Stevens and Harris continued to maintain their record as the heavy hitters of the team. In the game with N. Y. U., Duplin pitched for Dartmouth, and Torpe, for N. Y. U. It was a cold day and free hitting was prevalent, Stevens, Harris, and Picken making several long hits.

When the team went to Worcester, after a brief rest, to play Holy Cross, Edwards pitched the entire game, but Carroll proved to be superior and won for his team. However, Dartmouth evened up by easily winning their first home game from Middlebury five days later.

After being foiled by rain at Harvard, Princeton, and Columbia, the team finally found a dry field at Cornell. Edwards, again playing throughout the game, was very effective, and Elliott and Owl were the big hitters.

The games with Penn and Harvard, on the week-end of May 8 and 9, proved to be the major events of the house-parties, and were later declared to be the most thrilling games of the season. In the former, Comerford pitched the entire thirteen innings and finally spectacularly won his own game by stealing home. The next day, in the Harvard game, Edwards was in the box. In the last half of the ninth inning, with the score 4-3 in Harvard's favor, two men out and two on base, Bjorkman stood at the plate with two strikes and three balls. Rising to the occasion, he crashed a terrific Texas leaguer along the third-base line which the third baseman failed to see, thereby bringing in the two men and ending the game 5-4 in Dartmouth's favor.

On the following Wednesday, Fleet pitched against Brown University in Hanover, and the result was never in doubt. The next game in Hanover was with Williams, Perkins pitching for them and Edwards and Carver opposing him. Dartmouth won in the final inning. The return game with Brown was at the dedication of their new stadium, and in accordance with the traditional loss of form incurred at the raising of a flag or the firing of a gun, the team played poorly and lost the game.

The next game in Hanover was with Vermont. Owl did some heavy hitting in this game and got a home run in the first inning, but the game was called at the end of the fifth on account of rain. In the return game at Burlington, the team helped to form part of the Memorial Day program of the town. A thunder-shower in the middle of the game stopped play for a half-hour or more, but gasoline was burned on the field, and the game went on and lasted for ten innings—Edwards pitching the entire time. The team played Bates in Hanover on the fourth of June, and then, two days later, met Columbia. The latter game, although the score was a bit one-sided, was one of the best of the season. Edwards pitched, and this, coupled with the hitting of Harris and of Bjorkman, won for Dartmouth.

In the last three games of the season, with Williams, Cornell, and the Alumni, Dartmouth again proved her superiority on the diamond and ended her most successful season.

The 1925 Track Season

Although the 1925 track team was not successful in winning many of its meets, it can be considered a fairly strong team. Its strength lay in its balance. The outstanding feature of the indoor season was the relay team composed of Bates, Blake, Colladay and Rose, which only bowed to Georgetown's quartet. The balance of the team was upheld by Herrman, Barker, Ketz and Covert in the field events; and by McCall, Bates, Crawford and Rose in the track events. During the season four men made new college records: McCall in the 220, Bates in the 440, Crawford in the 880, and Covert in the javelin throw.

The 1925 season opened with the B. A. A. Games at the Boston Arena. Bates, Blake, Colladay and Rose formed the mile-relay team which won over Brown in the fast time of 3 minutes 33 seconds. The two-mile relay team was not as successful, being eclipsed by Syracuse. In this meet Myers of the Chicago A. C. broke the record for the pole vault with the height of 12 feet 10½ inches. Barker of Dartmouth obtained second place in this event with 12 feet. Captain Bugbee placed third in the 45-yard high hurdles.

A few members of the team entered the American Legion Meet at Portland, Me., on February 9. Captain Bugbee again placed third in the 45-yard hurdles. The Bates, Blake, Colladay and Rose combination defeated Bates College in the mile relay.

The best way to recall the Harvard, Cornell, Dartmouth Triangular Meet of February 28 is to mention that five new records were established. The two outstanding individual performances were the broad-jumping of Ketz, who took first in this event with 21 feet 11¾ inches, and the high-jumping of Herrmann, who sprang into first place with 5 feet 10 inches. The outstanding group performance was the passing of the baton by Colladay, Rose, Blake and Bates. Harvard and Cornell trailed the Dartmouth quartet in the order named. Other Dartmouth point winners were Canfield, Collins, Bates, Barker, Bugbee, Osgood and Kelly.

The I. C. A. A. A. Meet was held in New York, March 7. The Dartmouth Mile Relay team made its first descent from first place. The Georgetown team placed first, setting a new record of 3 minutes 21 4-5 seconds. Yale took second, Dartmouth third in time that was faster than the old record. Harvard and Syracuse placed fourth and fifth respectively. Ketz, a consistent point winner for Dartmouth, took third place in the broad jump, following Dowdin and Norton of Yale. Another consistent Dartmouth scorer, Herrmann, tied with seven others for second place in the high jump. Barker tied for third in the pole vault with Owen of Princeton and Bontecou of Cornell.

Again this year Dartmouth sent a relay team to the Drake Relays to compete with the best in the country. Due to the tiresome trip and the great competition, Dartmouth failed to place in this event. In a special 100-yard dash Edger took fourth place.

On account of a late spring the Dartmouth athletes were unable to do much training out of doors before the first outdoor meet with Yale and Penn at New Haven. Because of this handicap the men did not show their real ability. Captain Bugbee was the only individual winner for Dartmouth, capturing the 120-yard hurdles in 16 1-5 seconds. In the broad jump Ketz lost first place to Deacon of Yale. Bates finished third in the 440-yard dash which was won by Gaza of Yale. Jamison took third in the javelin throw.

The real strength of Dartmouth's trackmen was shown in the meet with Wesleyan held in Hanover on May 9. In the following events Dartmouth took all three places: 220-yard dash, won by McCall; 440-yard dash, won by Bates; 880-yard run, won by Crawford; mile run, won by Martin; two mile run, won by Osgood; and the broad jump, won by Ketz. This shows that Dartmouth met with little competition in this meet; and that, from all appearances, Wesleyan was competing with a team out of its class. The final score was Dartmouth 115, Wesleyan 20.

On May 16 the Harvard track team journeyed to Hanover for the first time. This meet proved to be the most exciting ever witnessed on Memorial Field. The stellar event was the 880-yard run in which Crawford of Dartmouth defeated Watters of Harvard, the intercollegiate one-half mile champion, in the record breaking time of 1 minute 55 seconds. Bates of Dartmouth smashed the record for the 440, defeating Allen of Harvard in 49 2-5 seconds. First laurels were also awarded to: Captain Bugbee in the 120-yard hurdles; Barker in the pole vault, who succeeded in clearing 12 feet 6 inches; Jamison in the discus; and Ketz in the broad jump. In the latter event Dartmouth walked off with all three places, Canfield and Colladay taking second and third respectively. This was reciprocated by Harvard's walking off with the 220-yard low hurdles, thanks to Fletcher, Robb and Kane who finished in the order named. The only tie in the meet was between Herrmann of Dartmouth and Jones of Harvard in the high jump. Both men jumped 5 feet 10½ inches.

The track season was closed by the Outdoor Intercollegiates held in Philadelphia on May 29 and 30. This meet brought together individual stars from all over the country. Covert broke a college record by hurling the javelin 183 feet 9¾ inches. Ketz obtained fifth place in the broad jump with 23 feet 11½ inches. Norton of Yale took first place with 23 feet 11 inches.

The 1928 Freshman Track Season

From the material at hand Coach Cohn was able to form a fairly well balanced Freshman Track Team. The material that made up the relay team showed its worth by shutting out the Maine and M. I. T. freshmen at the B. A. A. Games. This quartet consisting of Patience, Carson, Alford and Glendenning led during the whole race by a comfortable margin. On February 28 these same men defeated the freshmen relay teams offered by Harvard and Cornell. Glendenning took second in a very close 40-yard dash, won by Burns of Harvard.

The indoor meet with Andover ushered in the dual meets of the 1925 season. For the first time in the history of the annual Dartmouth-Andover meets, the Dartmouth freshmen were victorious. The Green Striplings took first in every event. The outstanding performance was Glendenning's winning three first places: in the 60-yard dash, the 220, and the broad jump. In the 60-yard dash the Glendenning-Wright combination made its first appearance with Wright taking second place. The final score of the meet was Dartmouth Freshmen 73 4-15, Andover 25 11-15.

The Springfield Freshmen came to Hanover on May 2 to be squelched with the score 94½-31½. Dartmouth 1928 took all three places in five events: mile-run, 440-yard dash, hammer throw, high jump, and pole vault. Glendenning took first and Wright second in the 100 and 220. Bollier of Springfield and Talbot of Dartmouth broke the tape together in a fighting finish of the 880-yard run.

The Green freshmen went to Exeter to be defeated by the score 76½-49½. In the 100 the order of placing was reversed with Wright placing first and Glendenning second, putting Cooley of Exeter in third place. Near the finish of this race Glendenning pulled a tendon which cancelled his performance in the broad jump. Wright also took first place in the 220-yard dash.

The meet with Andover on May 16 ended the freshman track season. Because of the injury received in the Exeter meet, Glendenning was not able to enter. Wright, a consistent point winner for the freshmen, took second place in the 100 and the 220. The 100 was won by Borah of Andover in 10 seconds flat. Wells, '28, obtained first place in the high hurdles, and finished second to Paxton in the low hurdles. The time of the high hurdles was 16¾ seconds. Moody '28 won the high jump with 5 feet 10 inches. Although the teams appeared to be nearly equal in many events, the Andover team edged out the freshmen 69 2-3—56 1-3.

Review of the 1925-26 Basketball Season

Dartmouth had little reason to expect any marked success at the start of the 1925-26 basketball season. Only one veteran, Captain Dey, remained from last year's aggregation. From pre-season indications it seemed that the Dartmouth quintet was to have a most inauspicious season. These indications were strengthened by the defeat meted out by the University of Maine in the opening game. From this unpropitious beginning the team rose, until, at the close of the season it held the second place in the league, having won six out of its ten league games.

From the group that reported for practice, Coach Wachter selected Captain Dey, the only veteran, McFadden, who had played on the 1926 freshman team, and Whitaker, Langdell, and Gordon, all of whom had seen service on the freshman team of last year. A change in this line-up was necessitated when Whitaker, McFadden, and Gordon were lost to the team. This loss was in part made up by the appearance of Picken, a veteran who had hitherto been ineligible, and of Tully who had played on the 1923-24 team.

Dartmouth dropped its first game to the University of Maine, 26-23. The home team showed a marked weakness in its floor-work, and a lack of finish in its team-play. The weakness, both in guarding and in shooting, which was revealed in this game, had been largely corrected when the Green five downed M. I. T., 38-21. Harvard upset the Green quintet 36-22, thus avenging its defeat of last year. The Cambridge five boasted four lettermen in its line-up, thus presenting a more seasoned aggregation, which accounts in part for the Green's poor showing.

On the ninth of January, Dartmouth opposed Yale at New Haven in its first league game. The Green easily conquered its Eli rivals, 26-16. But against the strong Columbia machine, Dartmouth seemed powerless. The New York team completely outplayed the Green, holding the long end of a 33-15 score at the final whistle. In one of the hardest fought games of the season Dartmouth defeated Penn at Philadelphia, 32-27. The outcome of the game was uncertain until the final gong. Against Princeton, Dartmouth showed superior mettle. The team, strengthened by the addition of Picken, showed a new life, vanquishing the visitors 23-18. Before the Williams Winter Carnival crowds the Green played the home quintet, winning 45-36.

As a feature of the Winter Carnival the team met the Crescent A. C. of New York, whose personnel included several ex-college stars. The home team was considerably handicapped by the loss of Whitaker who had been one of the main point scorers. The visitors won, 30-25. Shortly before the Union game McFadden left the squad. Tully, who had seen little action this year, replaced McFadden, while Langdell shifted to center, being replaced at guard by Heep. Much improvement over the playing in the Crescent A. C. game was shown against Union, the home team winning 31-22. A further blow to the team came with the loss of Gordon. This loss occurred before the Cornell game. This game was notable because of the close guarding exhibited by both teams. The final score was 12-8 in favor of the Green.

Norwich proved an easy prey to the Dartmouth five, falling 38-13. The next week the team was defeated by Princeton, 36-25. After this game the team showed a new strength for it threatened Columbia, the league leaders, finally losing by one basket, 32-20. Until almost the end of the Columbia game, Dartmouth held their opponents to a tie, then Norris of Columbia sunk the winning basket just before the final whistle. At half-time Dartmouth led 17-15. The ensuing week Dartmouth defeated Yale 30-20. The outcome of this game was by no means certain until late in the first period when Dartmouth began to show its superior strength. From then on the home team led to the end.

On the seventh of March the team defeated Penn 22-19 in one of the hardest games of the season. Dartmouth led until shortly before the whistle when the visitors assumed a three-point lead. Then Heep with a long shot from the floor, followed by two baskets by Picken and Ellis, decided the outcome.

In its final game of the season Dartmouth yielded to Cornell to the tune of 25-16. Throughout the game the team showed poor form both in shooting and in floor-work. Dake of Cornell was the star of the game with eleven points to his credit, while Picken was the mainstay of the Green team. This game marked the close of the season for the Dartmouth quintet.

Review of the 1926 Hockey Season

Every pre-season indication pointed toward one of the most successful seasons in years for the Dartmouth hockey team. As prospective material Coach Denesha had seven letter-men, including Captain Manser and Ex-captain Everett, as well as several members of the 1928 freshman team of last year. The indications proved true for the team had one of the finest records, at the end of the season, in the history of hockey at Dartmouth, in spite of the fact that the schedule was one of the heaviest ever played, being exceeded only by that of the 1923-24 season. The team lost but three games out of the fifteen played. Two of these defeats were at the hands of Toronto, for eight successive years the holder of the Canadian Intercollegiate Championship. In its only other upset, Dartmouth was defeated by Harvard, 3-2, in an over-time period. Because of their exceptional showing, the team were awarded straight letters.

From the wealth of material that reported for practice, Coach Denesha selected Captain Manser, Everett, Fryberger, Hardy, and Anthony of last year's sextet, and Lane of the freshman team of last winter. The team was retarded in its practice by the unfavorable ice conditions, and had but one week of practice when it met the Cleveland Collegians at Cleveland in its first game. Consequently the team was in poor condition, but it succeeded in downing the Ohio sextet 4-3 in a close game. After three days of practice in Cleveland, the team journeyed to Buffalo where it outplayed the Nichols Hockey Club, composed of ex-college and amateur stars, 8-3. For the first time since Dartmouth and McGill have met on the ice, the Green team defeated the Canadians, 3-1. On the following day Dartmouth was decisively defeated by Toronto, 10-0 in the Boston Arena. The score was particularly high because of the loss of Anthony, Dartmouth goal-tender, who was injured during the course of the game. This game brought an end to the team's Christmas trip. The contest scheduled with Boston University in Hanover had to be postponed until later in the season due to unfavorable weather conditions.

On the twelfth of January, Dartmouth defeated Yale in the new Madison Square Gardens in New York, 1-0. The lone tally was not made until the final period when Mills received a pass from Hardy and drove it into the net. On the following day the team outclassed the Army at West Point, 5-1. This was followed by the decisive 12-1 defeat which was administered to Cornell on the Hanover rink. The Ithacans were completely outplayed throughout the game. Because of the cancelling of the M. A. C. game, due to poor ice conditions, the next game was with the Boston Alumni at Hanover. The team held the alumni scoreless while rolling up eight points themselves.

On the third of February the Green sextet completely overwhelmed Princeton at Princeton, taking the long end of an 11-2 score. Everett was the individual star, tallying five points although he played for less than half of the game. The team journeyed back from Princeton in time to entertain the Winter Carnival crowds by defeating Yale, 3-1. Dartmouth did not show its prowess until the final period when it overcame Yale's one-point lead through shots by Manser and Lane. At the start of this game Dartmouth was in a slump but the keen competition afforded by the visitors and the cheers of the Carnival crowd aroused it to defeat the Yale team. The work of Ives, Eli goal-tender, was instrumental in keeping the Dartmouth end of the score down.

On the eleventh of February the team played Boston University in Boston, defeating the home team 3-1. Two days later Williams was downed, 4-1, in New York. This game was played before one of the largest crowds of the season as both teams were reputed to be the best in the East. Lacking one of its mainstays, Everett, Dartmouth ran up a 7-1 score against Massachusetts Institute of Technology the following week.

In one of the hardest fought games in the annals of hockey, Harvard defeated Dartmouth 3-2 before a packed house in the Boston Arena. Everett resumed his place in the Green line-up, but was not in his usual form. This game was carried into an overtime period. At the close of the last period Harvard stood deadlocked with a 2-2 score. Then, in the over-time period Harvard drove the winning score into the net.

In an exhibition game, which was added to the schedule, played in New York, Dartmouth yielded the laurels to Toronto, 6-1. This game was closely fought throughout the first period. Penalties were numerous. It was while the two Dartmouth defense men were off the ice that Toronto began its scoring, piling up four points. Manser, on a pass from Lane, made the single Dartmouth score. Toronto had a seasoned team with an impenetrable defense which broke up the Green attack again and again. For eight successive years Toronto has held the championship of the Canadian colleges.

In the fifteen games played, Dartmouth ran up a total of seventy-two points to its opponents' thirty-four, a notable record. History shows this year's team to have been one of the best in the annals of hockey at Dartmouth. Coach Denesha will have a task to fill the places of Captain Manser, Everett, Mills, Anthony, and Rowe next year.

Review of the 1925 Cross-Country Season

The 1925 Cross-Country Season was, in point of scoring, one of the best that Dartmouth has had within the past few years. Facing a longer schedule than in previous years, the team started off in excellent form in defeating Springfield. The following week, although losing to Harvard, the Hanover harriers put forth one of the strongest combinations that Cambridge was to see during the season. After taking second place in the Triangular Meet at Boston, the team won easily from Cornell at Ithaca. In the two remaining meets of the year—the Quadrangular and Intercollegiate Meets in New York—the squad took second and fourteenth places, respectively.

The meet with Springfield in Hanover on October 17th opened the 1925 season and proved to be a most successful beginning for Dartmouth. The race was won by Dalrymple, who pulled away from Payne of Springfield in a spectacular sprint on the home-stretch. Other Dartmouth men were well to the fore and so assured the Green of a win. The score was 22-36.

The succeeding meet with Harvard at Cambridge on October 23rd proved to be the most exciting one of the year. The entire race was so closely contested that not until Gordon of Harvard took tenth place was the race decided. The race for individual honors was all between Captain Auer and Dalrymple of Dartmouth and Tibbetts and Haggerty of Harvard. These four men remained practically abreast for the entire distance, and Tibbetts—who later proved himself to be intercollegiate champion—just barely reached the worsted before Dalrymple. While the score was 27-28 against them, the team made a splendid showing against such an excellent aggregation.

October 31st saw the team in Boston for the Triangular Meet with New Hampshire and Brown. Despite the fact that Dalrymple was under the doctor's care and Mason and Mullen were ill, the team managed to threaten first place several times during the race. But New Hampshire finally won out at the end with a score of 25; while Dartmouth placed second with 33, and Brown trailed with a 72.

The next meet was in Hanover with Cornell on November 7th. With the stands packed to capacity for the football game that day, Dalrymple led two of his teammates across the tape to take the first three places of the race. The meet, although not spectacular, was a decided win for Dartmouth—the score being 33-81.

On November 14th the team entered New York for the first time in the 1925 season to participate in the annual Quadrangular Meet with Columbia, Cornell, and Pennsylvania. Dartmouth again had to be content with a second place, bowing to the strong Columbia aggregation. Cornell and Pennsylvania placed third and fourth, respectively. The race for individual honors was keen throughout—Captain Auer of Dartmouth and Smith of Cornell leading the field most of the way. In a heart-breaking sprint at the finish Captain Auer was just beaten out by Smith.

At the Intercollegiates in New York on November 23rd an exceedingly strong group of teams was assembled from all over the country. Syracuse again regained her former supremacy in this activity, easily winning from Pittsburgh, last year's champion. Tibbetts of Harvard and Loucks of Syracuse took first and second places respectively. Captain Auer placed fourteenth and thus nosed out a fair place for Dartmouth, even though the team itself was a bit off its stride.

The 1926 Swimming Season

Dartmouth started off the season by defeating the New York Athletic Club at Hanover.

At Carnival time, Yale found the closest competition of the year, but won with the relay as the deciding event. In this meet Bronson, the Yale captain, broke the intercollegiate record in the 100-yard swim, and a new pool record was set up in the relay by the Yale mermen.

Following the McGill meet, the M. I. T. team were the next to fall before the Dartmouth natators, 48-14, with Bryant establishing a new Dartmouth record of 24 6-10 seconds in the 50-yard swim.

On the second trip of the year, Dartmouth beat the Army and Wesleyan. In the latter meet McCaw established a new New England record. The sensation of the Brown meet was Bryant's double victory over Coles.

The Brooklyn Central Swimming Club, one of the strongest clubs in America, submerged the Dartmouth tank-men, 43-19. The relay was the most exciting event of the afternoon, Dartmouth losing only by a hair's breadth.

The season was wound up very successfully by winning the New England Intercollegiates at Middletown. Dartmouth scored 37 points with its nearest competitor, Brown scoring 16. On two successive nights, Russell lowered the N. E. 440 record, finally recording the mark of 5:42 7-10. The relay team established a new record of 1:19 4-10 for 160 yards, the final event of the year.

Review of the 1925 Soccer Season

The Dartmouth soccer team, coached by Mr. Dent, had a most successful season. Out of the six games played, the team won four, tied one, and lost one. It is notable that the team won every one of its letter games, while it lost the first game against the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College team, and tied the second game with Amherst. Throughout the season weather conditions handicapped the team, yet Dartmouth managed to pile up a total of twenty-five points against its opponents' nine, an average of almost three points for every one scored by the opponents.

On the tenth of October the team opened its season against the powerful Springfield Y. M. C. A. College eleven. The entire game was played in a blizzard. At the end of the half Dartmouth led with a 3-2 score, but in the second period, the Green team, facing the wind, was unable to hold the heavier opponents. Springfield's last two goals were the results of long shots. Collins, Zanger, and Woodbridge scored the points for Dartmouth.

Dartmouth tied Amherst 2-2 on the seventeenth of October. The muddy condition of the field handicapped the lighter Green team. The home team was on the defensive during most of the game, but Marx broke through the Amherst defense twice for scores.

The next week the team journeyed to Cambridge where they decisively outplayed the Harvard team, 5-1, thus avenging the 3-1 defeat of last year. Dartmouth's first score came when Zanger rushed the ball the length of the field early in the first period, and drove the team's first score into the net.

October twenty-first, on a very muddy field, the team defeated the hitherto unbeaten M. I. T. eleven 10-1. Marx, the Green forward, scored twice within the first five minutes of play. The defense work of Worth and Meyercord was especially commendable as the Tech team did not have a shot at the Dartmouth goal until after fifteen minutes of play. Marx, Zanger, and Woodbridge were the scorers for the Green team.

On the sixth of November the team defeated New Hampshire State University, 3-0, on the home field. Dartmouth assumed the offensive early in the game, and maintained it with little interruption until the final whistle. Merrick made the first goal, after twenty minutes of hard play. Makepeace and Zanger brought the total up to three.

On November fourteenth, in its last game of the season, the Dartmouth team defeated the Navy at Annapolis by a 2-1 score. Both teams were handicapped by the terrific windstorm which raged throughout the game. On the previous week-end, the Navy had beaten Lehigh, reputed to be one of the strongest teams of the East. All of the scoring was done in the last period. Last year the Navy defeated the Green eleven 5-1. The Navy's only score came when a thick scrimmage in front of the Dartmouth goal unbalanced the defense. This game completed one of the most successful soccer seasons at Dartmouth. The record of the team is especially impressive considering the adverse weather conditions under which the team played most of its games.

The 1926 Gym Season

The Dartmouth gymnasts started the season off well by overwhelming M. I. T., 42-12. Bliss and Sadler starred for Dartmouth with two first places each, the latter winning the horizontal and parallel bars, while Bliss took the rope climb and the flying rings. Captain Kortlucke and Megathlin also took first in their events.

In the second meet of the year, Pennsylvania won by the score of 30-24. By winning this meet Penn won the intercollegiate title, due to a change in the rules which says that the title shall no longer be determined by the winner of the Intercollegiates, but by the records in the dual meets.

On the southern trip, Dartmouth first beat West Point, 37-17, winning all but one first place which was taken by Wenzlaff in horizontal bars.

Princeton proved to be a bit harder but, nevertheless, the Dartmouth team won, 31-23. The feature of the meet was the double victory of Taylor of Princeton over Bliss of Dartmouth in the rope climb and the flying rings.

Dartmouth lost the final dual meet of the year to the Navy at Annapolis, 38½-15½. Bliss starred for Dartmouth, winning in the flying rings for the only first place and tying for third in the rope climb. Captain Kortlucke, Sadler, and Anderson, scored second places for Dartmouth.

Pennsylvania again showed that they were superior in the gymnastic line by winning the Eastern Intercollegiates at Philadelphia. This meet was to determine the individual and all-around championships, not the intercollegiate title. Dartmouth trailed Penn by one-half a point, with all of its six men figuring in the scoring. Sadler won first place in the horizontal bar and tied for first in the parallel bars. Smith and Kortlucke scored second and third in tumbling respectively. Megathlin and Bliss scored second in their events, while Anderson took third in the side horse.

The 1925 Golf Season

The Eastern Intercollegiate Golf League opened its season on May 6th and the Dartmouth Golf team went to the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club links to play Amherst and Columbia. The team was very successful in these two encounters, beating Amherst, who only had a four-man team, 6-0; and Columbia 8-1.

The next morning, May 7th, saw the team at the Montclair Country Club where they defeated Princeton 5-4. In the afternoon encounter with Pennsylvania the team suffered its first defeat. However, the match was very closely contested and the outstanding foursome of the meet was the one in which Gorton of Dartmouth was finally beaten on the 20th green. This being the deciding point of the match, the final tally was 5-4 in Pennsylvania's favor.

Then on May 9th the team journeyed to the Brooklawn Country Club to play Yale at Bridgeport. Jenkins was the only one who won his match in this encounter, Dartmouth losing 8-1 to the Yale team which later in the season carried off the Intercollegiate championship honors.

After a brief rest the team went to the Winchester Country Club to play Harvard. Although the match turned out to be a loss for Dartmouth, it was one of the best of the season. The deciding point was left to Sullivan and Rodormer of Dartmouth, who, though playing skillfully, finally lost the foursome to Harvard on the 20th hole; making the final score 5-4.

In the next match on May 21st at the Worcester Country Club, the team encountered little difficulty in defeating Holy Cross 8-1.

On May 23rd, Dartmouth suffered defeat at the hands of Williams at the Pittsfield Country Club. The match was hard-fought, but Williams proved themselves to be superior—the final score being 7-2 in their favor.

The College Golf Tournament held just before the close of the semester gave the championship to W. H. Taft, '25, who also won it last year. The tournament was a good one and the competition was strong throughout. The men selected were: W. H. Taft, '25; J. M. Batchelder, '26; J. J. Jenkins, '26; J. H. Sullivan, '26; M. Joslyn, '27; E. W. Rodormer, '27; G. Brush, '28; C. Proctor, '28.

At the Intercollegiate Golf Tournament held at the Montclair Country Club on June 22nd, Dartmouth, at the end of the first day was in a tie with Princeton for first place. However, on the next day Yale came up from behind and captured first place—Dartmouth being fourth.

GOVERNING BODIES

Palaeopitus

Palaeopitus (from the Greek meaning "Old Pine") was secretly founded in 1900 through the efforts of several Alumni headed by E. K. Hall, '92, in a belief that it would be effective in harmonizing various branches of college activities in representing the undergraduates, especially in that period of Dartmouth's sudden growth and increased popularity under President Tucker. In 1902 the organization was publicly made known and a reorganization was conducted. In 1924 another reorganization was conducted to keep pace with the change in the college and allow for a wider representation of organizations. Palaeopitus has always been a Senior body composed of elective members and certain members ex-officio by virtue of their representative position.

Palaeopitus is composed of twelve members, four of whom are elected by the Junior class in May, and eight of whom are ex-officio: The Managers of Varsity Football and Track, the Manager of the Musical Clubs, the Editor-in-Chief of The Dartmouth, the President of the Dartmouth Outing Club, the President of the Dartmouth Christian Association, the President of the Arts, and one man from the group of high scholarship Seniors, chosen by election.

The object of Palaeopitus is thus defined in its constitution: "The object of this organization shall be to bring into close touch and working harmony the various branches of college activities, to stimulate undergraduate thought, to crystallize and reflect undergraduate opinion, to preserve the custom and tradition of Dartmouth, to promote her welfare and protect her good name.

Occum Council

The Occum Council, founded in 1920, disorganized in 1924 and reorganized in 1925, is a body whose function is chiefly that of co-operating with Palaeopitus and acting as a medium between Palaeopitus and the undergraduate body. The council's object is practically the same as that of Palaeopitus, the former arranging more of the details and execution of activities than does the latter. The council has charge of such things as Interclass, Interfraternity, and Interdormitory Contests, Special Train Concessions, Class Elections, and College Forums.

The Occum Council is composed of the presidents and the secretaries of the four classes, a president elected by Palaeopitus, and a representative of Palaeopitus.

Green Key

The Green Key is the college organization for the entertainment of Dartmouth's guests, both athletic and non-athletic. It is made up of fifty juniors, who are elected each year by the members of the previous delegation. These men serve from May of their sophomore year until a corresponding date of their junior year.

During the past season its work has been primarily with visiting athletic teams, seventy-six various athletic organizations being taken care of. Its work has not been limited to this scope, however, as the entertainment of a large number of guests connected with other activities has been provided for.

The Green Key was the first society of its kind to be established in the East, and its success during the five years of its existence may be measured by the fact that eleven similar organizations have been started in other eastern colleges as a result of association with the Dartmouth Key. At present it is self-supporting, raising all funds expended in the performance of its duties, and is independent of college organizations and administration.

Proposals regarding a change in personnel and election to the Green Key have been made at different times, but except for a change from sophomore to junior membership nothing in this respect has materialized, and the society has continued its work in furthering intercollegiate relations by the same methods since its establishment.

Dartmouth College Council on Student Organizations

SEASON OF 1925-26

The non-athletic organizations of Dartmouth, with the exception of the publications, are controlled by a council which is similar to that which regulates the athletic affairs of the College. It is known as the Council on Student Organizations, and is composed of three faculty members, a graduate manager, one alumnus, and three undergraduates chosen from the most prominent non-athletic organizations. The College publications are edited solely under student management. All other undergraduate non-athletic organizations are under the complete jurisdiction of this council.

It is the work of the council to care for the finances and arrange the schedules of the following five activities: The Dartmouth Players, the Musical Clubs, the Forensic Union, the Band, and the Arts. The undergraduate members are chosen from the managers or presidents of the organizations under its control.

Much activity has been shown in these organizations during the season of 1925-26. The Musical Clubs took five trips during the fall to cities in the vicinity of Boston and New York. The Glee Club took a special mid-winter trip into northern New York and New Hampshire, as well as the annual tour to New York City for participation in the Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest, and a tour to various points in New England was arranged for the Instrumental Club. The combined Musical Clubs spent spring vacation on a trip through the Eastern and Middle Western states.

The Forensic Union is a prominent member of the Eastern Intercollegiate League which schedules debates during the entire College year. The Band accompanied the football team on all its out-of-town games, including the Chicago-Dartmouth game, played throughout the basketball season, and gave concerts in Hanover during the winter and spring. The Arts holds frequent four-o'clock discussions during the winter months, and obtains many noted speakers for the College.

Last, but not least, The Players have presented a number of dramas during the year, as well as "The Dancing Princess," an operetta written by two undergraduates. This was given several times in Hanover and in various eastern cities during the spring vacation.

The Aegis

The Dartmouth AEGIS originally appeared in quarto form three times a year, dated 1858-59. However, as early as 1851 a similar publication existed. The book was published soon after the opening of each term and contained besides a very meager amount of editorial matter, only a list of college officers and students, societies, and other college organizations. We are told that it sold for five cents a copy and sometimes even brought a profit to its undergraduate promoters.

In 1867, the AEGIS changed to a pamphlet and the editors were so bold as to use a few steel engravings of fraternity crests to lend an air of dignified elegance. We find its purpose defined in the 1867 volume as a book "designed to furnish statistics and local news."

With the 1874 book comes the change from a triennial to an annual. Even before this date, however, what was later termed a "sinister influence," had begun to creep into its pages. By 1872 "Grinds" had made their appearance in the book and by the latter part of the century were providing the greater part of the copy. These "grinds" were simply jokes and digs of various sorts, often cheap and usually decidedly personal in character, directed at members of the college community.

In 1892, The Dartmouth Literary Monthly, launched a back-to-nature-movement in which vehement pleas were made for the good old days of the directory-like AEGIS pamphlet. The particular basis of this wail for the old traditions was based on the increasing cost of the annual necessitated by the greater elaborateness of make-up. In fact, the senior tax by 1892 had risen to eight dollars, an obviously great change from the five-cent fare served up thirty years before. The other objection to the newly evolving form of the book lay in the "grinds" which were claimed to be the main object in publishing the book.

However, the AEGIS survived this period of storm and stress and the Fundamentalists were defeated. Each year from that period on marks some new addition of material or some beneficial change in organization. The "grind" element, nevertheless, persisted up until very recent times.

Today, the AEGIS has become a comprehensive book reflecting all the elements of Dartmouth life. In 1924, feeling that a more complete record of the class could be obtained by a later publication the AEGIS which had been a junior book from its inception was changed to a senior annual, edited by a Senior Board. The transition was, of course, a trying one. The natural loss of interest in a book which must be a repetition of the preceding one placed a severe handicap on the AEGIS and its mentors.

With the sincere desire to make the AEGIS worthy of a position at Dartmouth which the annual holds in practically all other large colleges, the editors of this volume have re-instated several features that have been omitted of necessity from recent books. Every effort has been put forth to present Dartmouth truthfully and accurately in the college year of 1925-26, and when possible to present some of those elements in the past which have foreshadowed the Dartmouth of today.

The Dartmouth

With eighty-seven years of distinguished history behind it, The Dartmouth occupies a prominent place in college life today. Founded in 1839, the first college newspaper in the United States, the fortunes of the publication have fallen and risen through the many years of its existence. The embryo stage, always the critical period of growth, held no difficulties for the young publication, then in the form of a literary monthly.

With growth came changes, and by 1875 the policy of the paper was altered, and it became a newspaper, appearing weekly.

In 1910 the increased enrollment of the College and the resulting greater abundance of news warranted the more frequent appearance of the publication, and in response to the new demand, The Dartmouth was printed tri-weekly. The final innovation did not take place until 1920, when The Dartmouth came into its own as a daily paper.

One of the most significant and far-reaching steps taken toward the development of the paper was the act of incorporation under the laws of Maine, at a capitalization of one thousand dollars—five hundred common and five hundred preferred. The common stock alone was to have the voting power.

The Dartmouth, as the morning newspaper of the College, is primarily concerned with giving a full and accurate record of campus news and activities to its subscribers. Besides this, its editorial columns do much in shaping campus opinion, and at the same time the paper prints both sides of the pertinent questions by publishing letters in its Vox Populi Column.

At the present time it is a member of the Associated Press and the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association. By this service, events in the world outside are published, and all news is at the students' doors each morning, several hours before Boston and New York papers arrive. The Dartmouth reaches practically all the undergraduate and Faculty members of the College, and has a circulation of approximately one thousand copies outside of Hanover.

The management and news-gathering agencies of the paper are all controlled by and made up of undergraduates. Under the present system there are several freshman competitions each year. Each competition lasts about ten weeks, and the winners are elected to the editorial or business boards.

The editor-in-chief, associate editor, managing editor, and news editor are chosen from the junior news staff after a year's competition, and assume their offices just prior to spring vacation. The other positions of financial remuneration, consisting of business manager, advertising manager, circulation manager, and service manager, are filled by a competition of the sophomore business staff, and the students chosen from it act as assistants while juniors, taking over active charge of the business department of the paper with the three Commencement issues at the close of their junior year.

The Dartmouth stands as an example of what college undergraduates are capable of accomplishing by definite constructive effort.

The Jack-o-Lantern

The Jack-o-Lantern is published nine times during the college year, and contains jokes, parodies, light-verse, and other witty material as well as drawings of the highest quality. The Jack-o-Lantern constantly progressed in scope and universal popularity so that it now enjoys an enviable reputation as one of the largest and best of all college humorous publications. The annual Carnival number is the only special number produced. This year the Carnival number contained 120 pages, making it the largest college comic ever published. Positions on the literary, art and business staffs are filled by competition from all four classes, and the holders of executive staff positions are well repaid for their efforts by campus distinction and practical experience.

The Tower

The Tower is unique among national collegiate publications as the only journal of its particular kind. Founded last year as a pioneer in the combined fields of literature and criticism, The Tower is devoted to bi-weekly publication of critical articles on current happenings, literary criticisms, book reviews, essays, and poetry. It has, since its inception, found increasing popularity among both undergraduates and Faculty, until it occupies a position of importance among the College publications. Unlike the other College publications, The Tower is governed by a board of editors rather than by a single individual. It will, moreover, hold no competition for membership on the editorial board. The directorate for next year will be chosen by the present editors from the best contributors rather than by means of the heeling system.

The Dartmouth Pictorial

The Dartmouth Pictorial, the new tri-annual photographic review of campus activities, made its first appearance in Hanover last fall. The Pictorial publishes the best efforts of undergraduate photographers, and emphasis is placed on quality, throughout, in pictures, plate work, and mechanical details. The ultimate purpose of the Pictorial is to present an accurate record of the college year in pictures. Elections to the business and pictorial boards are made on the basis of merit alone, and all undergraduates are eligible. The offices are held by Seniors who have worked as assistants during Junior year. The Junior assistants are chosen from among the board members, for the positions of Photographic Editor, Managing Editor, Advertising Editor, and Circulation Manager, at the end of Sophomore year.

Starting with a large nucleus of last year's men and a number of newly recruited men, the Musical Clubs enjoyed a most satisfactory and successful season this year.

The regular fall vaudeville show brought out a large number of good specialty acts, and the best of these, together with two or three others which were worked up during the fall season, accompanied the clubs on trips from time to time and appeared in the home concerts.

The performances in Hanover consisted of the Specialty Act Show early in the fall, and two tea dances, one held on the evening of the Cornell football game, and the other in the Trophy Room in the Gymnasium at Carnival time. The Barbary Coast Orchestra furnished music for both of these affairs. The Spring House Party Concert and the regular Commencement program will be given as usual.

The combined Musical Clubs held a joint concert with the Harvard Musical Clubs in Symphony Hall at Boston, the night before the Harvard-Dartmouth football game. A concert was also given with the Brown Musical Clubs at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence after the Brown-Dartmouth football game. The regular fall trip included concerts in Hartford, Conn., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Orange, N. J., and Summit, N. J. During the spring vacation the combined Musical Clubs appeared in the following cities: Springfield, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Rockford, Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Columbus, Philadelphia, and Montclair.

The Glee Club alone appeared in Waban, Mass., in the early fall. A joint concert was given with the Smith College Glee Club at Northampton just before the Christmas recess. A mid-winter trip taken by the Glee Club included a joint concert with the Skidmore College Glee Club at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and concerts in Plattsburg, Montpelier, and Woodsville. A trip to New York City was taken during the first part of March to enable the Glee Club to participate in the annual Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest held in Carnegie Hall. Preliminary concerts were given in Bellows Falls, and Mamaroneck, N. Y.

For the first time in the history of the Musical Clubs, a separate tour for the Instrumental Clubs was arranged which included concerts in Concord, Boston, Brookline, and Dover. A trip has also been arranged to Worcester and Mt. Holyoke for the first part of May.

Organized Dramatics, 1892-1926

When "The Silver Box," by John Galsworthy was presented on December 11 and 12, 1925, in the Little Theatre by The Dartmouth Players, dramatics at Dartmouth entered the thirty-fourth year of their organization.

It was in the fall of 1892 that the Dartmouth Dramatic Association was organized. Sheridan's "A School for Scandal," an old favorite for amateur productions, was the first presentation and the only one of that year. This was the first organized attempt in the college at dramatics, and from the slowness with which the tree sprung from this seedling, we can surmise that little success attended it.

Roughly, the history of dramatics at Dartmouth can be divided into four periods. They are: (1), the pre-Wanger; (2), the Wanger; (3), the pre-Paquin; (4), the Paquin or present. The pre-Wanger period, the Dark Ages, can be further divided into the periods 1892 to 1901, and 1901 to 1913, a few shining lights acting as beacons through the dark days of 1901 to 1913. During the years of first growth, 1892-1901, such plays as "A School For Scandal," "David Garrick" and "Twelfth Night" were the favorites—it seems that they were yearly occurrences, nothing more. Coupled with a lack of facilities was a dearth of players and material. Bissel Hall, then the gymnasium, was the theatre, and student talent for writing anything worth the hardships of production was lacking. In 1896, "The Buskin" was adopted as a name, but in 1897, a more conservative element brought back "The Dartmouth Dramatic Association." We find that Craven Laycock is recorded as stage manager about this time. Do all youthful propensities follow us throughout a lifetime?

Several names stand out as beacons in the second period of the "Dark Ages." They are those of Clarence G. Howes, '03, W. L. Hartshorn, '03, and Harry R. Wellman, '07. Howes arranged the music for two operettas produced in 1902 and 1903, Hartshorn wrote "Two Many Cousins," the first student-written, directed and produced play, and Wellman wrote the music and lyrics for "The Founders," produced first in 1906 and again during the Webster Centennial Celebration. Except for the work of these three men, the period 1892 to 1913 can be passed over lightly. Each of the three was a pioneer in his field, and to the pioneers we give all the credit. It is interesting to note, however, that in 1907 College Hall became the theatre and in 1908 Webster Hall was used for the first time. Between 1906 and 1913 the most outstanding event in dramatic history was the production on the campus of a Greek play. This play attracted wide attention over all New Hampshire, being attended by many notables, alumni, and the whole student body. This was the most pretentious effort until the Wanger period.

Then came Walter F. Wanger. To him Dartmouth owes much of its dramatic growth. In a single year, 1913-14, by his efforts almost unaided, productions lost their commonplaceness and assumed a mantle of superiority. Twenty or more one-act plays were given that year, both in Hanover and on the road. In one week, from Wednesday to Wednesday, seven one-acts, perfect in detail and action, were run off. The Fulton Theatre in New York was the scene of a highly successful performance of that year's Carnival show, "The Misleading Lady," which was being simultaneously produced by a Broadway company. David Belasco, Percy Mackaye writing in Theatre Magazine, Luther Anthony, editor of The Dramatist, and Laurette Taylor in the New York Times were generous with their praise of the quality of the Dramatic Association's production. A height was reached in quality and quantity that has never before or since been surpassed.

When Wanger had gone, the life and genius of the Association went with him. The pre-Paquin period began then to tarnish with its mediocrity the brilliance of the immediate past. However, much effort was spent to keep the productions up to the Wanger standard, which is one redeeming feature of the years intervening before the coming of Lawrence Paquin. But with the war, the fall seemed complete. It was unavoidable, perhaps, and censure must be visited on no one. In February, 1918, the first of our present Carnival musical shows was ready for production, but the war necessitated that "Chasin' Around" be laid aside for two years. In February, 1920, in Webster Hall, the show was successfully produced. Since then, annually, a musical show of some kind, usually a musical comedy, written by a student, has been presented each Carnival week-end.

The Dartmouth Dramatic Association passed out of existence in the fall of 1920. In its stead came the Dartmouth Players seeking greater scope. George L. Frost, now an instructor in English, was the first president. An interesting sidelight on the activities of the Players about this time was the formation of an inner conclave known as The Lambs. It included only those who had shown themselves worthy of recognition in histrionics, but the club did not live long, having passed from this life before the 1923-24 season opened. Not much can be said for the productions of the years 1920-23 except that distance does truly lend enchantment to the Carnival shows, "Rise, Please," "Hush," and "The Sahara Derby." It was with this last named show that The Players undertook their first extensive road-trip. The trip was successful from every point of view except that of the treasurer.

We will do well to call the Paquin period, which began in 1923, the Second Renaissance. Lawrence Paquin came here when the outlook was anything but bright. Under his direction, with Lockwood, '24, Kelsey, '25, and Smith, '26, aiding him as ably as possible, The Players were able to look back on a golden past and forward to a prismatic future. "Rollo's Wild Oats," by Clare Kummer, "The Admirable Bashville," by Shaw, and "The Hairy Ape," by Eugene O'Neill, were the outstanding productions of the 1923-24 season. In February, 1924, The Players called for manuscripts for the 1925 Carnival show, offering a prize for the one selected as the best. This was decidedly an innovation in dramatic life at Dartmouth, and of the large number submitted for consideration, "Atmosphere," by Warren Murray and David Merriam, was selected.

Encouraged by the showing of The Players in 1923, it was decided to undertake a more ambitious program in 1924. "The Great Catherine," by Shaw, was outstanding. Produced with it was "Aria," by Disque, '25. Other productions of that season worth mention were "The Flare of the Match," a melodrama by Kent McKinley, "He, Who Gets Slapped," by Leonid Andrieve, and Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." For the first time in the history of dramatics at Dartmouth women were used in the cast of a play. "He, Who Gets Slapped" was so produced.

Unusual permission was granted The Players last fall. They were quick to take advantage of it, and "The Poor Nut," by E. and J. C. Nugent, which opened in April in New York, was produced for the first time on an amateur stage. "The Silver Box," by John Galsworthy, was presented in the Little Theatre in December. Marshall McClintock's and J. J. Hills' "The Dancing Princess," a comic opera, won The Players' prize for the Carnival offering, appearing twice. During Spring vacation this show successfully completed a trip among several eastern cities. The remainder of the season was occupied by Shakespeare's "The Tempest" and the Prom Revue.

The Players are proud of their accomplishments of the past few seasons under the Paquin rule. They are looking forward now to a time when greater facilities and actual theatre equipment will enable them to surpass in quality and finish any or all of the past productions. The two prizes offered yearly will, The Players believe, greatly influence the type of plays offered to them for consideration. Talent for scene designing will be fostered by competitions. Latent histrionic ability is continually being brought out by the system of competition for any rôle in any play. Mr. Paquin gives to every offering a recognizable touch of completeness and directorial genius. With facilities which are at hand for such clubs as those at Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania, and Michigan, The Players believe that under the system of production here, they could compete favorably with any college dramatic club. It is to be hoped that this Second Renaissance in Dartmouth dramatics will not be allowed to decline as was the First under Wanger. The Players organization is complete except for that vital necessity, a modern workshop and theatre.

The 1925-26 Season of the Dartmouth Outing Club

In 1909, sixty men vitally interested in the out-of-doors came together and formed the Dartmouth Outing Club, from which has grown the complex organization of today. "The object of the Dartmouth Outing Club shall be the promotion in the college of camping, tramping, mountain climbing, snowshoeing, skiing, woodcraft, and similar outdoor activities." With this purpose in view, the Club has increased the membership until it is now over eighteen hundred.

Its cabin facilities have grown so that at present the number of cabins is fifteen. Of this number, fourteen form the cabin which stretches from the north end of Franconia Notch, near Littleton, down through Hanover to Happy Hill Cabin, in Vermont, via Franconia Notch, Moosilauke, Cube, Smarts, and Moose Mountains. In addition there is Mel Adams, a feed cabin, situated not far from Hanover. This fall three hundred and fifty freshmen attended the Outing Club feeds there.

Other activities sponsored by the organization include a summer camp on the summit of Moosilauke, the maintenance of a skating rink on Occom Pond, ski instruction to novices, week-day trips to Mt. Cardigan, Mt. Ascutney, and Smarts Mountain, the annual midwinter climb of Mt. Washington, Intercollegiate winter sports meets, and the Winter Carnival.

Every summer a group of two or three men from the Outing Club devote the entire summer to the work of running the D. O. C. camp on Mt. Moosilauke. Several years ago the old Summit House Hotel was given to the Club with the stipulation that every summer the hotel should be open and run by the Club for the benefit of hikers. Each year the number of visitors has increased, for the merits of the mountain are becoming more widely known. This past season three thousand hikers were accommodated.

The organized clearing of the ice on Occom Pond for the winter season this year for skaters of the college and the community was an innovation made by the Club. Opportunities were presented that allowed the plan for cleaning off the snow to become feasible. Through contributions by organizations of the college and members of the community, the Club was able to make this project a success.

Ninety-four freshmen answered the call for the Cabin and Trail competition. The members of the competition are taught the care of the cabins and equipment, are instructed in the cooking of plain foods, and are required to go over all the trails and to stay at least one night in each of the cabins. These requirements are minimum, for a love of the woods and mountains, and the participation in outdoor activity serve as the standard for election to the Cabin and Trail.

Afternoon trips to nearby mountains were continued this fall. Ascutney, Cardigan, and Smarts were visited for the views that they give of the White and Green Mountain ranges. The annual Thanksgiving trip over the Franconia Range was run as usual. During the spring a trip will be run to the Green Mountains in addition to the weekly afternoon trips similar to those arranged for in the fall. These trips are run for the benefit of those who are not in the competition and wish to get out into the hills.

According to custom, the yearly trip to the Presidentials was conducted the latter part of February. The party of twenty men climbed the Old Carriage Road, and scaled the treacherous headwall of Tuckerman's Ravine. Experienced Outing Club leaders who were well acquainted with the region and who knew the dangers of winter climbing led the trip.

The Dartmouth Winter Carnival is the big event of the college year, for it is the combination of social events and winter sports. This year the three nights and two days were one unbroken chain of events, including Outdoor Evening with its fancy skaters, Snow Palace, and toboggan slide, Carnival Show, Treasure Island Ball, fraternity dances, and lastly, the ski-jumping contest with participants from forty-two members of the Eastern Amateur Ski Association which resulted in the breaking of the jump record by a leap of a hundred and twenty-four feet.

For the first time in Outing Club history, the Championship Meet of the Winter Sports Union was held at Dartmouth. New Hampshire, Bates, Williams, Loyola, McGill, and Dartmouth competing. New Hampshire won the title, beating Dartmouth by one point. The record made at the Carnival was broken by a one hundred and thirty foot jump by a member of the Dartmouth team.

This is a brief resumé of Outing Club work during the past year, but it is only characteristic of what has taken place in preceding years with improvements here and there to assure a continual step forward. With its aim to serve the college by promoting the spirit of the "trail," it gives Dartmouth a unique position among colleges of the country.

The Dartmouth Outing Club has given rise indirectly to several similar organizations in other colleges this season.

Its spirit still prevails in many members who have left Hanover. Some have continued its work in larger fields, and as Outing Club men, they have carried the D. O. C. trail signs into the Arctic, the Hawaiian seas, the Rockies, and on the recent Canadian Alpine Club expedition to Mt. Logan, the D. O. C. arrow rested on a tent flap 14,000 feet above sea level.

The 1926 Winter Sports Team Season

The Dartmouth Winter Sports Team entered men in nine meets during the winter, 1925-26, and took ten first places, twelve second places, eight third places, and seven fourth places. The Rules of the Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union, of which Dartmouth is a member, call for the meeting of the best men, in every event, in the annual championship meet. This goes to show that a Dartmouth team met the best college competitors. The schedule also included competition in several open amateur meets with other members, teams of the U. S. Eastern Amateur Association.

The first meet of the year was at Lake Placid, December 31-January 1, where Dartmouth met practically all of the colleges which have winter sports teams. The Universities of Wisconsin and New Hampshire tied for first with eighteen points, while Dartmouth captured third place with nine points, the other colleges trailing behind.

On February 4-6th, the Central Divisional meet of the I. W. S. U. was held by the Williams Outing Club at Williamstown. Here the Dartmouth team barely defeated the University of New Hampshire team for the championship of the Central Division of the I. W. S. U. In a field of the best jumpers in the East at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival open jumping tournament, Proctor, because of his consistently good distance and excellent form, took second place.

On February 11-12, the Winter Sports Team entered a triangular meet with New Hampshire and Williams at Durham. Here Dartmouth placed second to New Hampshire. The same week-end, four jumpers took part in the Norwich University Winter Carnival, in which Whittemore won second place. This same team entered the Vermont State Championship Meet at Brattleboro, and there took first, second, and third places in the college class jumping.

The Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union Championship Meet was run by the Dartmouth Outing Club at Hanover on February 19-20. Dartmouth placed second to New Hampshire, losing by one point, due partly, it is believed, to an unfortunate accident to Captain Farwell in the ski cross-country race, which prevented him from finishing the race. McGill placed third, Williams fourth, and Loyola fifth.

The outstanding work of Proctor in the jump, proficiency, and one-mile skiing, with the balanced nature of the rest of the team, is responsible for the team's consistent showing during the season. Dartmouth also had North, a good figure skater, in the field. Harris and Laffey proved their ability as speed skaters.

Proctor was high point scorer in every Intercollegiate meet since the Lake Placid meet, and broke Bing Anderson's record on the Dartmouth jump by six feet, in a beautiful leap of 130 feet in the I. W. S. U. meet. Farwell and Proctor were awarded straight D's for their work on the Winter Sports Team.

1926 Winter Carnival

The Connecticut Valley lay curtained in a smother of scurrying flakes. Boreas had prepared the scenes for the Sixteenth Annual Winter Carnival of the Dartmouth Outing Club. The special trains from Boston and New York steamed into the little Hanover and Norwich stations, and from them disembarked six hundred guests. Sleigh after sleigh sped over the ancient bridge, and soon the campus was checkered with strolling couples. The heavily falling flakes continued, and dusk began to cover all. Then soft rays of light gleamed from the Alumni Gymnasium as the Musical Clubs' Tea Dance began to weave its spell for tripping feet.

At seven o'clock the crash-boom-bang of the aerial bombs high over the campus signalled the opening of Outdoor Evening. The throng passed between columns of red fire, ice pillars, and colored lights to the special stands overlooking the ice stage with its back drop of the sparkling white ice palace and flood lights which whipped in the stiff breeze like captive stars tugging at their leashes. In its special weather-proof dugout the Dartmouth Band of forty pieces began its overture for Charlotte and Hendrick Peterson of the Montreal Winter Club, who held all eyes with their exhibition of grace and poise in a wind that might have daunted timid spirits. Bill Small, the famous "Black Blot on the Ice," and ever-popular comedian, entertained his second Carnival audience with his clever antics and stunts. After speed skating races, the pond and the thousand-foot toboggan slide were turned over to the visitors who soon poured on the ice in such throngs that the weight produced a geyser in the south chute of the slide. A valiant crew of Hans Brinkers could not stop the flow, and the slide was closed after the dash across the pond became a ride through a cloud of spray. At ten, the fraternity house dances commenced, and gradually the resounding chords drew away all but the more enthusiastic skaters.

Friday was a perfect day, and this drew a large group to watch the first official event at noon, a ski-joring race between eight spirited teams. Later in the afternoon fifteen fraternity teams, and a large group of individual entries met at Hilton Field to show their visitors vigorous competition in snow sports. The meet was the first of its kind which was limited to Dartmouth undergraduates. When the score was counted, Sigma Phi Epsilon had won the Interfraternity Ski Relay, and the Seniors held the lead with 21 points over the Sophomores' 19. The courses were ideal from the spectators' point of view, for the falls came often and hard, and tangles were frequent, although no one was hurt.

At the Spaulding Pool, later in the afternoon, one official Intercollegiate record, three Spaulding Pool records, and an unofficial Intercollegiate record were shattered when the Yale swimmers defeated the Dartmouth team 35½ to 26½.

In the evening the dignified portals of Webster Hall admitted a motley crew wrapped in capes and cloaks disguising a strange lack of usual white expanse of bosom, starched or powdered. The advance guard of the pirates was assembled to watch the Players present "The Dancing Princess."

At four bells a horde of pirates with their fair captives poured into the low-vaulted cave of the Alumni Gymnasium. Music blared from a niche, and the Tr (Pl) easure Island Ball was on. Six hundred couples whirled in mad abandon until the sharp bark of pistols announced the return of the crew of "The Spanish Scourge" bringing plunder. As the crowd closed in, a short command to halt and the quick drawing of cutlasses precipitated a duel between the leaders, ending in victory for Captain Harde. He pried open the chest and disclosed a fair captive who stepped out and plead for her life with a snappy Charleston, to the great delight of the assembled madmen. The music crooned on until gray dawn drove night, like a great bat, to its roost in the cave. A few of the more enthusiastic guests with, perhaps, their own escorts, went for a sleigh ride or a run down the toboggan slide.

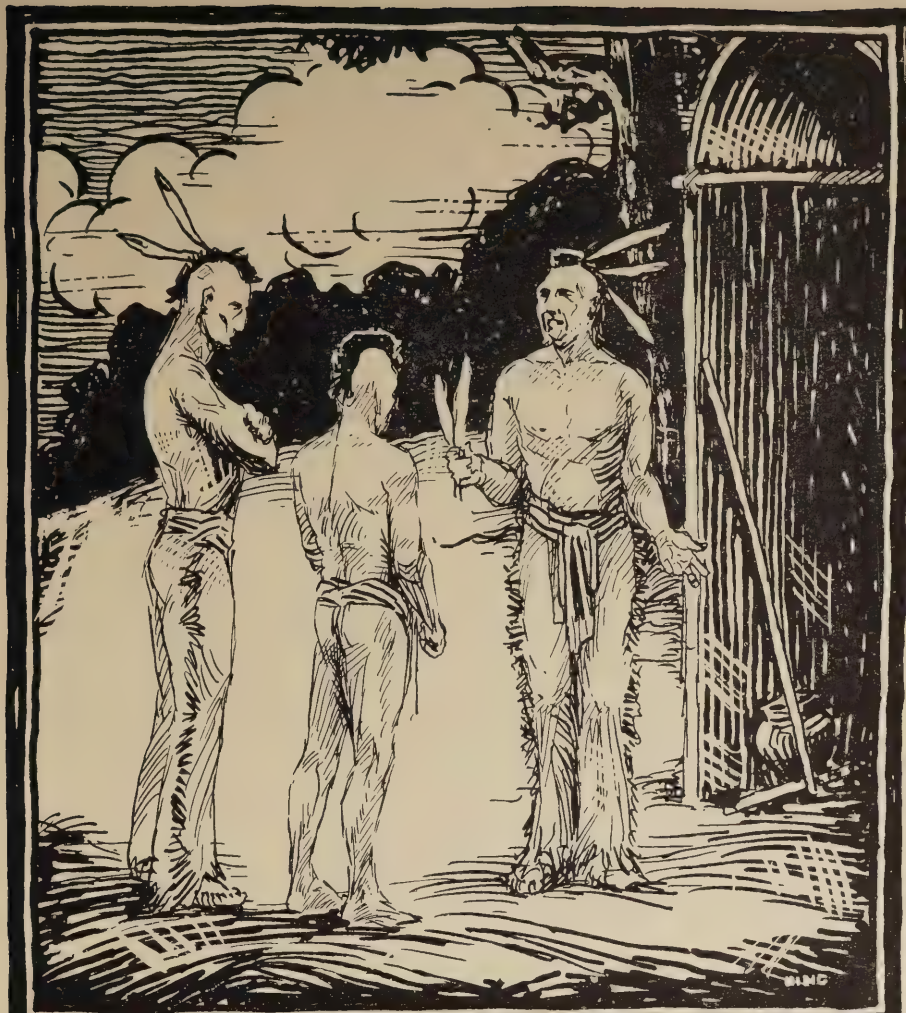

In the first event of Saturday afternoon, Dartmouth stubbornly fought its way up from behind to defeat the Yale hockey sextet by a 3 to 1 score in one of the most bitterly contested games of the year.

But it was at the open ski jumping tournament on Saturday afternoon that the Carnival guests experienced their most intense thrill of the four days. This event, the climax of the Winter Sports Events of Dartmouth's Sixteenth Annual Carnival, and the first open meet ever held on the new Dartmouth Outing Club steel jumping trestle, brought into action forty of the best jumpers in the East. Three thousand spectators watched the intrepid jumpers fly into space at the rate of fifty miles an hour, until a new record of 124 feet was made by Ingvald "Bing" Anderson of the Nansen Club of Berlin.

That evening the Dartmouth basketball team suffered its fourth defeat of the season at the hands of the Crescent A. C. of New York, by a score of 30 to 25. Following the basketball game, the Players again presented "The Dancing Princess" in Webster Hall to another appreciative audience. The program was drawing to a close, but the end did not come until, after an evening which featured bellowing saxophones and the "Charleston," the historic bell in old Dartmouth tower struck the hour of twelve. Cinderella had slipped away, and the curtain was drawn on the Sixteenth Winter Carnival of the Dartmouth Outing Club.

Sunday dawned. The special trains puffed away, heading south along the banks of the Connecticut. Hanover was again the deserted village of the North Country. Carnival, bigger and better than ever before, had been a success, of which the memories will live a long, long while.

The Forensic Union

The period of transition through which the college is now passing has left its mark on debating at Dartmouth. The spirit of reconstruction that is found on all sides has evidenced itself within the Forensic Union. Improvements are arrived at and to this end, several new plans have been accepted and several new steps taken. This is done lest the high quality of work that former debaters set up should be forgotten and lest their work should not be carried on. Even in debating there is an "esprit de corps."

For the last two years, Dartmouth has ranked second in the Intercollegiate Debating League. This year's debates indicate that chances of first place are far from poor. Of the four debates held so far, three have been won.

The new steps taken this year are significant. In the first place, the squad system has been put into operation for the double purpose of giving more men practice and of requiring not only debating ability, but also industry. The results so far have been gratifying in the extreme; for example, there were sixteen old debaters who joined the squad for the third debate of the year.

A second worth-while step was taken at the suggestion of Coach Utterback of the Public Speaking Department. He urged that more training be given to freshmen. Under his direction, a squad of twenty freshmen was cut to ten from which number the various freshmen debating teams were chosen just before a debate. Many of these freshmen are even better than some past and present varsity debaters. So these men interested from their freshman year and trained with the same care as the varsity teams indicate a most successful future for debating at Dartmouth.

The third step was a failure; but only a temporary one. An attempt was made to send a debating team to England this summer. The proposed trip was approved by President Hopkins and The Institute of International Education in New York offered to handle the arrangement for debates in England. The English Universities replied that they would be very glad to meet a Dartmouth team but that it would be impossible to arrange a date until September when the fall term starts. This of course is impossible for Dartmouth debaters.

So ends one more year of debating at Dartmouth. Success in debates is still evidenced; future success looks even brighter because of the new squad system and excellent freshmen debaters. The conception of Dartmouth visiting England not only indicates the future of our Forensic activities, but it is a living testimony to the high state to which Coach Utterback has brought debating at Dartmouth.

CLUBS

The Arts

The Arts, founded in 1916, has for its purpose the bringing together of such men of the College as have a marked interest and some degree of ability in intellectual and aesthetic fields. The Arts acts as a clearing house for the ideas and opinions of those who are strongly interested in literature, painting, philosophy, and music.

At the weekly meetings held on Thursday afternoons, informed members of the Faculty and other competent speakers address the organization on subjects which pertain to the purpose of the society. Informal teas are held every week-day afternoon of the year, commencing late in the fall.

One of the functions of The Arts is to secure the services of men and women of note to lecture to the college body. During this year The Arts has secured, among others, Sherwood Anderson, Carl Sandburg, Ernest Boyd, Arthur Hornblow, and Hamlin Garland.

In order to encourage undergraduate literature, The Arts this year conducted a poetry contest and a short story contest. A prize of fifty dollars was offered the winner of each. R. G. Eberhart, with his poem, Hierarchy, won the poetry prize. As this goes to press the author of the best short story submitted has not yet been determined.

Various internal improvements has marked this year as distinctive in the history of The Arts. Many volumes have been added to the library, additional furniture for the rooms has been purchased, and no effort has been spared to make the meetings a success in every way.

The Dartmouth Christian Association

The purpose of the Dartmouth Christian Association is "to acknowledge Christ and to try to follow His teachings." Experience has only served to reaffirm the importance of two principles included in the above statement. The first is that acceptance of the purpose means that one should study the sources of Christianity to understand the points in life which Jesus emphasized. The second principle is that the Association can be of little value to the college except as each individual member tries to make Jesus' teachings effective in his life here on campus. This is no attempt to develop a "holier than thou" attitude on the part of the members nor does it encourage one to live a cloistered life. The purpose does say that an effort be made to translate the teachings of Jesus into the life of the campus, not by dogmatic statements and generalizations but by exemplifying the teachings in our own lives.

With no attempt to make a list of the D. C. A. "successes," a few of the methods used to clarify religious problems and particularly Christianity will serve as examples: Sunday night Fireside meetings; members' meetings; prayer and discussion groups; delegates to Conferences; the publishing of the D. C. A. Quarterly; and the circulating of books from our small library.

There has also been much interest in special attempts to carry the Christian teachings into everyday life. The nation-wide campaign among college students for the World Court received enthusiastic support; Rural Sunday Schools and Deputation Work has given students chances to put their religion to a practical test. Those who have helped in the freshman work and the service bureaus have had ample opportunity to give themselves in voluntary service to others.

Campus interest has increased in the educational work in China which the Christian Association has been supporting for several years. It was again included in the College Chest Drive by Palaeopitus. An Alumni Advisory Committee for the project has also been formed with Prof. E. B. Watson as chairman.

A further evidence of undergraduate interest in the Association work has been indicated by including the D. C. A. Budget in the College Chest. Formerly there were two independent drives.

Those who are familiar with the Association as friends or as members, continue to feel the directing force of a magnetic character dedicated to a sincere attempt, to know and to try to live out Jesus' teachings. The source of this guidance was Paul G. Sanderson, '21, who is now pursuing his studies in Harvard Medical School. He served as Graduate Secretary from 1923 to 1925. His patience, courage, unselfish love and devotion were qualities which guided and stimulated the students during a transitional period in the life of the Christian Association.

Le Cercle Français

Le Cercle Français du Collège de Dartmouth est fondé depuis 1900. Il est affilié à l'Alliance Française de l'Amérique et de l'Angleterre, ce qui permet d'engager chaque année un ou plusieurs conférenciers Français éminents. Le conférencier de l'automne de 1925 était M. Charles Cestre, Professeur à la Sorbonne.

Le but du Cercle est de coopérer avec le Département de Français en stimulant l'intérêt dans l'étude de cette langue et en suppleant aux classes plus ou moins formelles, des réunions intimes, des conférences publiques, et des représentations théâtrales. On peut citer, entre autres, le succès du "Médecin malgré lui" de Molière, du "Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon" de Labiche et de "L'anglais tel qu'on le parle" de Tristan Bernard. Les réunions donnent l'occasion de converser dans la langue du pays, de lire et d'interpréter les auteurs Français et d'écouter ou de prendre part à des discussions sur des sujets se rapportant à la France et aux Français.

Les membres du Cercle se réunissent dans une salle de Robinson Hall, spécialement aménagée, milieu à la fois utile et artistique et véritable coin de France qui aidera à cimenter, plus encore que jamais, les liens déjà si surs d'amitié et d'admiration réciproques unissant les deux pays.

El Centro Español

El Centro Español at Dartmouth was founded in 1923 by a group of twelve undergraduates for the purpose of stimulating interest in the Spanish language and its literature.

The aim of El Centro is to co-operate with the Spanish Department of the College toward increasing interest in the study of the language, and to supplement the class-room work with informal gatherings, public lectures and dramatic presentations. Efforts in this direction have materialized in the reading of several Spanish plays as well as in lectures by various members of the Faculty and undergraduate body.

El Centro Español offers an opportunity to members to use the Spanish language not only in practical conversations but also in reading, interpreting and discussing Spanish authors. Discussions relating to Spain and its people, as well as to our Spanish-speaking neighbors to the south, also form a material part of the activities.

Meetings are held once every three weeks in Robinson Hall, and the growing interest in the society gives ample evidence of the able manner in which they have been conducted under the leadership of President Townsend.

The Round Table

The purposes of the Round Table may best be expressed by giving the statement of its principles which were part of the original Liberal Club of Dartmouth. The statement reads: "The purpose of this organization is to bring about a fair and open-minded consideration of social, industrial, political, and international questions within the college," and further, "The organization shall espouse no creed or principle other than that of complete freedom of assembly and discussion. The ultimate aim will be to create among Dartmouth men an intelligent interest in the problems of the day." Many speakers were brought to Hanover and, after giving a public address, were engaged in discussion in the rooms of the Round Table. The purpose of the Round Table to create discussion and an intelligent interest in problems has been pre-eminently successful, judging from the number attending the public lectures, and the interest manifested in the discussion groups.

The Round Table has bent every effort to bring to Hanover some of the leading thinkers and interpreters of the drama of today. Among those speakers may be mentioned the following: Madame Ponafidine, representative of the Old Regime in Russia; Dr. Scott Nearing, famous radical and thinker; Prof. Livingstone of Columbia, an authority on Mussolini; Thomas L. Cotton; Norman Angell, famous British political economist; John Haynes Holmes of New York; Dr. W. E. Du Bois; Judge Huggins; Robert Morse Lovett.

Formerly the Round Table was affiliated with several liberal organizations throughout the country, but it has been the purpose of the executive board, this year, to remain true to the announced purposes that brought the organization into being. In this way it was thought the Round Table would be of the most service to every man on campus.

Bait and Bullet

Bait and Bullet was founded in the fall of 1921. Its purpose is to bring together those undergraduates who are actively interested in hunting and fishing, and to assist in the propagation of game and fish about Hanover. A requisite for membership in the club is that members be properly licensed and that they also be familiar with the game laws of the state.

The organization maintains a hunting lodge at Cummings Pond in isolated and good game country. Members of the club also hunt further north in New Hampshire and in Maine.

The Ledyard Canoe Club was founded in 1920 for the purpose of encouraging canoeing on the Connecticut River. From its inception the club quickly built up its outing equipment, so that at the present time, although it is one of the younger of the student organizations, it maintains complete canoeing facilities. Twelve canoes fill a boat-house situated immediately north of the New Hampshire end of the Ledyard Bridge. Six miles north of Hanover, on an island in the river, the club possesses a cabin, named after its honorary president, the Rev. John E. Johnson, which accommodates five to ten men, according to the time of year. Three miles north of the college on Occom Island, the Club owns Occom Cabin, accommodating two to four men, and a mile south of the bridge on a rocky, pine-wooded island, it maintains Chase Cabin, which accommodates from six to ten men. Nineteen twenty-five was devoted to altering and re-equipping Chase for "feeds," so that it will now feed approximately twenty men.

The activities of the Club include the "feeds" and outing parties at the various cabins, and an annual regatta in the spring. Early in the spring the club runs its annual trip from Hanover down the Connecticut River to Long Island Sound. This trip is open to any member of the college and the party is usually composed of about fourteen men and seven canoes. In the spring of 1925 two members of the club laid out and explored a trip north from Burlington on Lake Champlain into the Richelieu River in Canada, and down it to the St. Lawrence River. There has been talk of running this trip officially in the spring of 1926.

The club has increased steadily in popularity until it now numbers sixty students and twelve faculty members. The club holds elections of new members twice each spring and fall, based upon demonstrated ability in handling a canoe on the river. No heeling system is maintained.

With the advice of a board of directors composed of two faculty and four other student members, the president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer care for the affairs of the club.

Editor's Note

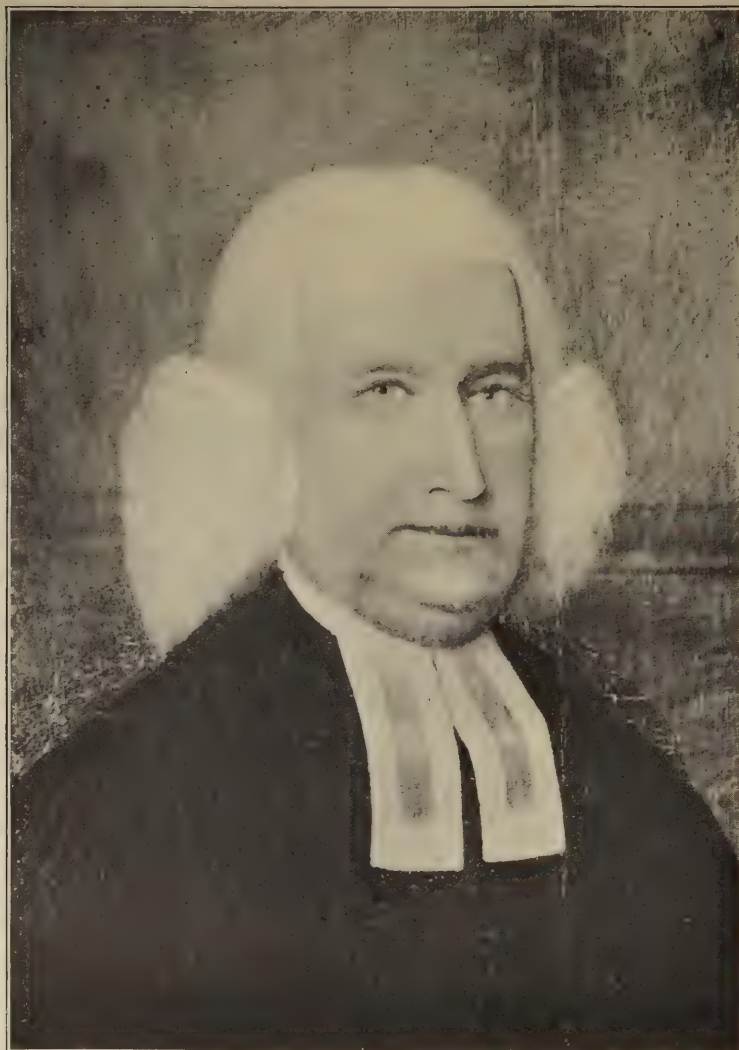

FOUNDING OF DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

Believing that all too many times the intended humor usually found in Feature sections has ceased to be funny by the time the book is published, and that it is seldom significant except to the immediate acquaintances of those who are lampooned, we have changed the material and attempted to change the spirit of this section in the 1926 AEGIS.

"When We Were Very Young" is planned as a culmination of the historical note stressed throughout the book. We had hoped to be able to print a brief history of the Penobscot Indians who made up the greater part of Dartmouth's earliest undergraduate body, but the material on this subject is surprisingly scarce and at present inadequate for an authentic and accurate account of this kind. However, some of the high-lights of Penobscot culture are illustrated in the headings for the various sections of the book. These drawings have been made from what historical data is available and are correct in all the various details. The page borders, for instance, are exact copies from a design used on the edge of a Penobscot Indian canoe. The hair dress, the type of shelter, the games in the art cuts, all are true to the ancestors of Dartmouth's first students. The brief material in this section has been gathered from the several publications which Dartmouth has seen since its founding up to and including 1922, the Freshman year of the present Senior class, and hence covers as long a period of time. There is a wealth of material, of course, which is not even suggested and due to the small amount of space we have had to skip entirely many years which were probably quite as significant as those from which we have picked quotations.

In fact, this section is nothing more than a scrapbook of bits found here and there which in the light of present day perspective seemed to us interesting and amusing. There has been little attempt at chronology, even at grouping so-called eras or periods. The pictures likewise, are without any fourth dimensional qualities—in so far as we know—and except in one or two cases, have no connection with the printed matter with which they may share the page.

An innovation lest the old traditions fail has all the elements of a paradox and may be of as little value. However, if this new-old section serves to make more vivid some of those elements which make Dartmouth what she is today, we shall be satisfied.

ELEAZAR WHEELOCK

Founder and first President of Dartmouth College

EDITORIAL

(From the Dartmouth Index, grandparent of AEGIS; newspaper form.)

"We have but a few words to offer by way of introducing our paper. It is thought that there is quite as much call for a publication like this one presented here at Dartmouth as at other colleges, and this term there seems to be almost a necessity for it. We have aimed to make this as complete an Index of the state of the college for the term as possible, giving as will be seen, a full Catalogue of the College as well as of its Societies, together with such other matters of information as may be desirable for the use of students and others interested. The present publishers do not intend to issue more than one number of the Index, but perhaps it may be continued from year to year by successive classes. It is long since the College has seemed to be in so prosperous a condition as at present. The Freshman class, and, indeed, the whole number of students is larger than at any time for several years (276 students, counting Medical Students), and there seems every reason to anticipate an increased number another year. The legacy of Mr. Chandler ($50,000), mentioned more particularly above, cannot but be of great benefit to the Institution. Other favorable indications might be noticed, but our remarks are already sufficiently desultory, and we commit our paper to the students without further preface save to express the hope that its utility may equal the wishes of the projectors."

—Dartmouth Index, Vol. I, No. 1, April 24, 1851.

EDITORIAL

(From the Dartmouth Phoenix, parent of AEGIS.)

"Old Time has wheeled us along out of dog days into fog days. The intensity of the fog varies directly as the size and condition of the individual. For a Freshman it is thick enough to be felt. Like Aeneas he frantically draws his jack-knife and proposes to cut out several large junks to put in his cabinet. It actually gets into the recitation rooms and obscures his vision so that he cannot even see through one of Chase's demonstrations. Sophs are supposed to be calculating the number of solid feet between A and A. Juniors are expected to look for evidence of design in it, and howl from out a shawl-muffled thorax that it is wholly external. Seniors are raised, by the sublime consideration of philosophy, far above such low thoughts. And spend their time in making long abstracts for a long professor (?). But to our subject.

The new arrangement in the Chapel promises well. Its effects are very happy thus far. It is now impossible for the Sophs to gauge the Freshman's rate of progress out from prayers. The end gallery has been removed, the pulpit and organ have changed places, a new stage has been built and the seats all turned around. A handsome flight of granite steps has been made in front of the Chapel, extending the whole length of the projection."

* * * * *

"The political world of the college teems with excitement, especially upon receipts of (returns). Clubs of both the leading parties have been formed and are both well sustained. To compare them would draw us on (sectional) grounds. In numbers the Republicans and Democrats bear about the same proportion as in other colleges. By a law of our last Legislature, students are now allowed the privilege of voting."

* * * * *

So much for news. A word for ourselves. We hope to render the Phoenix worthy of the generous patronage it has hitherto received. We assure you it is no small excitement to diligent effort in this respect, to think that we have the honor, from term to term, of visiting your home firesides, and chatting cosily with your sister, cousin, etc.

So "lay on, MacDuff."

—Dartmouth Phoenix, September, 1856.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

"The names of '97 men carved carefully in the new Senior fence (establishing the present tradition) and meant to be preserved diligently as landmarks of interest in years to come have been marred and effaced by horses gnawing the bars. Not only this, but often a man outside of the Senior class takes his seat on the sacred fence. Evidently the fence is not becoming what it was intended to be, purely a Senior piece of property, and moreover, not sufficient care is taken to see that it is kept intact from hungry horses."

—The Dartmouth, October 15, 1897.

OUR SALUTATIONS

(First editorial in the first Dartmouth.)

The editors of this publication will issue a short series of numbers at irregular intervals, during the present year. Whether they will be continued beyond that period depends on circumstances which can not be anticipated. The work will be exclusively literary. Its principal claim to favor is founded on the natural interest of an educated community in the juvenile efforts of its scholars. The writers for it are young men— young in years and young in letters—with no extraordinary advantages, or resources, for the instruction or entertainment of others.

We are not, however, without ambition. And if our attempts to engage the notice of riper minds should chance to prove that we are not without promise, we shall not regret the success of our first appearance. It will stimulate our zeal, and foster our hope, which we would fain cherish, of doing something in our maturity for the advancement of knowledge, and the happiness of men.

We have an austere climate, we are of a hyperborean race; vigorous, patient, and happy. Our granite state, and her marble sister on the other side of the river, are the cradle of a hardy and beneficent enterprise. Our institutions are nurses of a Caledonian independence. We are content with our position; proud of the northern Hive. And if these attempts of our unfledged muse awaken any hope among the friends of learning and truth, that as we migrate southward, or westward, we shall carry with us the family likeness, and bear the impress of our native scenes, it is more than we dare with much confidence even to anticipate.

In the preparation of matter for these pages, regard will always be had to the habits of thought which prevail in active life; though it should not seem strange, if many of our essays are a good deal tintured with an academical, scholastic character. We may not find it easy, constantly to bear in mind that the community we now address are not drill companies in literary tactics.

But our patrons will, we doubt not, pardon this and similar faults, if, on the whole The Dartmouth should so far answer our design as to present the staple of a sound philosophy, and, at least occasionally, the finish of a classic taste."

—The Dartmouth, Vol. I, No. 1, November, 1839.

The first bevy of Prom-trotting revelers arrive at the Inn.

A DARTMOUTH CARLYLE?

"Surely it seems to be the fashion now to love Nature, and here comes the Dandy—if there is any especial thing that I do hate it is he. See him, a two-legged butterfly, so gaudy is he, and he hath read of 'green fields,' and the 'gentle shepherds,' and the 'frisking lambkins,' and he wandereth from his home in perfect frenzy to love Nature—pah! how thou smelllest of cologne and musk. Would'st thou, poor creature of another world, that of the ballroom and theatre, aspire to love nature? Thou has no soul, unless it be of that magnitude that twenty can dance on a needle's point."—The Dartmouth, 1844.

PICTURE FIGHT?

"The world's continued advancement in morality, and the consequent decline of chivalry seem too apparent to meet with an objector. Our own Alma Mater has been subject to the general influence. For twenty years no term has been more free from disquiet than the one just completed. (We rely on the assertion of responsible individuals for this chronological fact.) Our Freshmen brethren have, but recently, distinguished themselves for 'moral courage' in declining the kind invitation extended to them by the Sophomores, to allow their limbs to be used for football; and future sons of Dartmouth will, undoubtedly, soon listen to the traditionary romances of College life, with the same eager interest with which we now listen to Europe's days of valor; while our esteemed Professors will bless forever the decline of College chivalry."

—THE AEGIS, 1859.

WHAT IS SO RARE—

"We are gratified with a rumor that the plan of introducing a heating apparatus into the College buildings, is under consideration. We hope it may be found feasible. To be relieved from the extortions of fuel-venders, the trouble of having wood cut and stored, the labor of keeping up fires, and the annoyance of the dirt and ashes connected with them,—to be able in January, by the turn of a screw, to let the genial air of June into our rooms,—is certainly 'a consummation devoutly wished'."

—The Dartmouth, September, 1867.

HOLDING THE MIRROR UP TO NATURE

"Mr. H. O. Bly, the gentlemanly and enterprising artist of this place, has been engaged for some weeks past in preparing an extensive and varied collection of stereoscopic views of scenery in Hanover and vicinity. The excellence of their execution and the felicity of their selection cannot fail to attract the attention of all lovers of art, especially visitors from abroad, and the Alumni whom we hope to greet at the approaching anniversary.—The Dartmouth, June, 1868.

SPORTRAITS BEFORE RETOUCHING

"FOOTBALL RULES.—At the request of many we publish the following rules which were adopted in the autumn of '71, and, with the exception of Rule I, have been observed ever since.

RULE I. Five umpires, one from each class in the Academical, and one from the Scientific Department, shall be elected annually by the college. The senior umpire present shall settle all disputes which arise concerning the game.

"RULE II. The ball shall be warned from the second base of the college grounds and towards the buildings. No warn shall be valid until both parties are ready.

"RULE III. Until the ball is kicked the warning party shall stand behind the ball and their opponents in front; the latter at a distance of at least two rods. These positions, and the warn as well, shall be changed each game.

RULE IV. No player shall kick, trip, strike, or hold another for any cause during the game.

"RULE V. It shall be considered foul when the ball is caught on the bound, or fly, or picked from the ground; when it passes the fence at the north or south end of the common, or at either corner, or when knocked past the east or west fence.

"RULE VI. In case of a foul the ball shall be tossed up by the umpire at the place where the foul occurs, unless it be within two rods of either fence, in which case the ball shall be brought directly in a distance of two rods before umpiring.

RULE VII. The game shall be won when the ball is kicked past the east or west fence."

"The usual game of Foot Ball, between the Sophomores and Freshmen, took place on the 5th inst. '77 won two straight games—the first lasting less than one minute, the second six minutes."

"An enthusiastic boating meeting was held in the chapel on the 8th inst. At which it was unanimously voted to have a series of class races, and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. The time will probably be about the middle of October. Several crews are now in active training and the river is lively every afternoon."—The Dartmouth, September, 1874.

THE BLIGHT THAT FAILED

"To the door of lawn tennis we may lay the gradual degeneration of the good old game of football, which has so long been a feature at Dartmouth. Three years ago the Frater and social games were the chief sport of the cool, breezy fall days; but now, alas! the game has become no more than a cheap imitation of Rugby, kept alive not for itself, but for the convenient opportunity afforded for the meeting of Sophomores and Freshmen. Many of the rules have been forgotten, the good 'kicks' are dropping out each year, and in five years more the game will have passed entirely away, to be recalled only as a tradition by gray-haired men."

—The Dartmouth Literary Monthly, October, 1886.

LOVE THAT PASSETH ALL UNDERSTANDING

"I know that it is rank heresy,—that the new library (Wilson Hall) is far better than the old, and all that,—but I must confess that I feel a little homesick when I go into the stack-room, and feel the atmosphere of evident newness around me. Clear, bright glass, fresh white paint, immaculate varnish, and polished oak—all very fine, I have no doubt, and yet it jars on me. And is it fancy, or do the time-stained, use-worn old friends from a century past look down uncomfortably from their glittering quarters, and heave with me a sigh of regret for the cosy hours we have spent together in the musty old nooks and corners of their former habitation, where I had hunted them out from their seclusion when the early wintry twilight was coming on and the keen north wind whistled merrily just outside our snug, warm retreat? Yes, I think it must be so, that they are lost as well as I, and are waiting for the dust, the cobwebs, and the darkness before they can feel at home again."

—Dartmouth Literary Magazine, October, 1886.

ON THE FOUNT OF KNOWLEDGE

In the line of nineteenth century progress, we would respectfully call attention to the condition of our college pump. The pump in the rear of Thornton Hall is the only means of procuring water in reach of the large mass of students. Such being the case, and well known to the authorities, why, we should like to inquire, can't we have a pump somewhat more modern in form and working than the present one? The students demand something more nearly like what is in use in civilized countries, and their demand ought to be acceded to. There is no particular reason why this old landmark should be retained long years after it has outlived its usefulness. True, water can be raised by its means; but then when we remember that there are so many pumps so decidedly improved over the one in use, we think the progressive spirit of Dartmouth College can be shown in no better way than by procuring one immediately. When this new pump is put in, we would suggest, moreover, that some one be sent down the well, with power sufficient to see to it that it be properly cleaned and made more nearly fit for drinking purposes than it is at present. In domestic economy it is always these small things that are last attended to. But now that attention is drawn to the condition of affairs, may we not expect and hope that some measures will soon be taken by the proper authorities in regard to the matter?"—Dartmouth Literary Monthly, October, 1890.

Free as the Savage roams his native Wood, — Or fiery Nations cleave the briny Flood.

DRESDEN: Printed by JUDAH-PADDOCK & ALDEN SPOONER, in the South End of Dartmouth College.

To the People of the New HAMPSHIRE GRANTS, East and West of Connecticut River.

My Friends and Fellow-Countrymen,

Though I beg leave to address myself, who have before the world, signified yourselves, almost four years, in that which essentially marks the free born—a vigorous contest for your civil rights and liberties. Many and various have been the measures to accomplish so desirable an end—Various have been your proofs of, and as various your feelings—but you resolutely entered upon the necessary labor, while you were apprised of the only alternative, fatal ruin, should you fail before the completion. Time after time successively have been eclipsed by brighter ones—and now you have almost reached the closing period—your cause has gained the particular attention of the tribunal of America.—For this once, at least, add virtues to your resolution—convince the honorable Committee from Congress, who will soon be here, and will make a strict report of your true situation—that you are not so captivated that a mere brook or river can divide your sentiments.—If you are united and determined to be together, you have nothing to fear. The reasons for dispute are not whether you shall all be with New-Hampshire, as before the year 1764, or whether you shall be organized into a new State; for your rights may be as permanently secured in the former, as in the latter case—this point is out of the question. The scale ponderates between New-York and New-Hampshire, so we have great reason to believe it is considered in the eye of Congress—excuse the comparison—like the Dog in the fable, while it was catching the shadow, lost the substance? Be not deceived—think not that the members of Congress talk so open and free in favor of the State of Vermont—there are other and greater interests respecting the New Hampshire Grants, that influence their attention; they mean not to fabricate a new state out of ruins created by divisions caused by ambition and impudence—connect with this idea the situation of Berkshire county in the Massachusetts; the fractured condition of some other states on the continent, and then reflect on the name and influence of a precedent or example, and candidly say if you can, that Vermont, in its present situation, will be recognized.—Be not seduced by deluding men, whose mingled reputations depend only on the success of a party; but let every one carry his heart in his hand, be wrought upon by truth more than by characters and support the essential union east and west of the river.—Congress itself considers the Grants as existing on a common principle—their very latest declaration holds it forth—they declare, “That a Committee be appointed to enquire to the inhabitants of a certain district, known by the name of the New Hampshire Grants—” that is, both sides of Connecticut River; and if they consider you as being connected, why should you divide yourselves?—Pardon me for pressing the matter, that if you do not cement the union, and rivet the band, your neglect may prove your ruin—but if a general harmony, prudence, and z-al co-operate, success will be the earnest of your future happiness.

A PATRIOT.

From the Essex Journal of May 18.

OBSERVATIONS on the internal policy of the governments of New Hampshire and Vermont, so far as it seems to interfere with each other, or so far as unskillful politicians or designing men, or both together, have in some degree occasioned discord, by propagating among the inhabitants of each State, as unjust motives of an imaginary selfish interest by calumniating and enviousing the one, on the ruin of the other.—Witness the unjust and impolitic union, (which is now fully dissolved) which was formed between the State of Vermont, and a number of disconnected towns on the east side of Connecticut River, and also a late petition preferred to the General Assembly of New Hampshire, by Brigadier General Jacob Bailey, and Mr. Davenport Peisler, desiring them to assert a jurisdictional claim to the territory of the State of Vermont, the consideration thereof being laid over to the session of their Assembly in June next.

A number of designing geniuses on both sides of Connecticut River, and contiguous thereto, had best it into the heads of the inhabitants of that vicinity, that the Grants east of the River to the old Mason line, were unconnected with any government, as to their internal police, and ~~the same as liberty to connect~~ with any government or political body. This delusion was with great art and industry propagated amongst the freemen of Vermont, and the magical influence of it was so great, that it charmed a majority of their House of Assembly, and young Vermont, in June 1778, stretched her wings over near one third part of the territory of New Hampshire; but a little cool reflection brought them (at their session in February 1779) to a sense of their mistake and danger, and excited them to withdraw it to the west side of the river again; nevertheless, it met with a small sprain, but is in a fair way to recover.

These disappointed schemers, who delighted to connect the whole of the Grants west of the Mason line, into one entire State, and bring the centre of the government to Connecticut River; adopted a second scheme viz to use their magical influence with New Hampshire, to lay a claim to the territory of Vermont, and accordingly circular letters were distributed through New Hampshire for that purpose.

This projection seems to be supported by the influence of part of the members of the Assembly of New Hampshire. Such part of the State as lies contiguous to Connecticut River, and whose inhabitants are desirous of bringing the seat of government into their neighbourhood, may be prevailed upon to endeavor the ruin of Vermont; to corroborate their interested view of extending jurisdiction over the premises others may be inclined to extend such a claim, as they may imagine that the acquisition of the territory of Vermont, would be a large addition of wealth and strength to New Hampshire, and afford it great assistance in the heavy list of paying taxes. To this I beg leave to observe, that from the same party of reasoning, the Grants east of Connecticut River to the Mason line, would have been a valuable acquisition to Vermont, (if they could have gotten it). However both of these propositions are as equally defective of justice as of sound policy; and I apprehend that they are equally impracticable.

The circular letter proposed the laying in of the said claim, with a delusive friendship to the inhabitants of Vermont; and I doubt not but that part of these gentlemen, who are in favor

"It has been announced by some paper that there is a young lady in Nashua fitting for this College, and intending to apply for admission at the coming Commencement or at the beginning of another year. The only qualifications for admission laid down in the 'Lawse' are that the person possess a certain knowledge of English, Latin, Greek, etc., and a testimonial of a good moral character. It is true that in all cases where a pronoun is used it is the masculine one, but this is so in all laws, criminal for instance, which are equally binding upon both sexes. We are curious to see how the Faculty will meet this attack on immemorial custom. Will they gracefully yield a place to this aspirant for knowledge or unkindly turn her from the doors?"—The Dartmouth, May 1871.

In Defence of Women

"Women vote? No! She is too weak and easily influenced, her prejudices are too violent and causeless; her memory is too short, and her tongue too long. Let her vote when she recognizes her own proper station, as companion to man, and fulfills its requirements; when she ceases to be by her own choice, a mere toy and plaything; when she refrains from the employment, so delightful to her heart, of match-making and match-breaking; when she talks less and thinks more; when flounces, and fringes and furbelows are not her ultima thule; when she reduces her vanity to decent pride, and it becomes an ornament instead of a deformity; when she is herself and not a hypocrite; when she is respected and not ridiculous. No one loves the ladies more than me; and for the love we bear we attempt to warn them. We refuse to give the negro the ballot until he reaches a fixed standard. Just so with woman. Until she throws off the armor of dross, in which she is encased, the scheme is Utopian—the idea most foolish. Until then—until then—what! Let the woman vote? 'The women folk! Ha! Ha!'"—Rhetoric, grammar and all from The Dartmouth, February, 1867.

And Brains?

"Is there an Aristocracy of Poverty in Dartmouth College?" A member of the faculty, who has been a teacher here for thirty years, put this question, and it seems to us that it raises an issue which every man in College would do well to consider carefully.

"Six or seven years ago it was customary for the men who had the least financial reason for so doing, to appear upon the campus clad in the most slovenly manner. They did this that they might be forgiven by their classmates for possessing more of this world's goods than some others. We firmly believe that this was a most deplorable situation, and during the later years of Dr. Tucker's regime the spirit so far changed that a man who once in a while wore a white collar, did not forfeit all claim to the respect of the undergraduate.

"That there is a tendency to relapse again into the old ways is made very apparent by the remark of a Senior, who is in a position to know whereof he speaks, 'Many men who today take jobs, of one sort or another that they may be respected and admired by their classmates, rather than from any pecuniary necessity.' . . .

"A plutocratic oligarchy is admitted to be a bad system. Yet we cannot see in what way a college the size of Dartmouth would profit by allowing itself to be governed by an aristocracy whose ranks were open only to the genuinely poor or those willing to feign poverty to gain an end.

"Let us maintain here at Dartmouth a true Democracy in every sense of the word, and let us guard ourselves not less zealously against an Aristocracy of Poverty than we have guarded against the more common Aristocracy of Wealth."—The Dartmouth Literary Magazine, March, 1911.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

FOUNDED IN 1769

OF the early American college foundations which still exist in the name by which they were chartered, Dartmouth is the fourth oldest in the country. It is a Liberal Arts college offering numerous courses in nearly every field of study and granting the A.B. degree. The College is the outgrowth of a school founded by the Reverend Eleazar Wheelock in 1754 for the Christian Education of Indian youth. It was named for Lord Dartmouth, the school's most active patron in England, through whose influence, together with that of John Wentworth, governor of the province of New Hampshire, the interest in the school of King George III was enlisted. Its charter was granted by King George in 1769 and the college located on the tract of land given by the king for that purpose.

Admission to the Freshman class is gained by certificate or by examination. Certificates will be received from preparatory schools and high schools which are on our approved list, but men must enter from other schools by examination. No school will be approved that has not an established, regular, and thorough course of preparation for college. All schools which desire to be placed on our list of "approved schools" should send to the Director of Admissions for a printed form of application containing a statement of the conditions for the approval of a school and the requirements which must be met. No certificate will be accepted from a private tutor or instructor. All correspondence relating to admission, and requests for catalogues should be addressed to

E. GORDON BILL, Director of Admissions.

Correspondence concerning rooms should be addressed to WILLARD M. GOODING, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.

THE ASSOCIATED SCHOOLS ARE

A Graduate School Offering Two Years of Special Preparation for Business Careers. Students of three years' undergraduate standing are admitted to the work of the first year, which leads to the bachelor's degree. THE THAYER SCHOOL OF CIVIL ENGINEERING

Established in 1871. Offers a general course of study and practice in Civil Engineering. Essentially two years of professional preparation, including the final year in College and a year of advanced work, leads to the degree of Civil Engineer. For information, application should be made to

THE MEDICAL SCHOOL

Established in 1798. Students may elect the first year in Medicine as the Senior Year in College. Fully equipped modern laboratories are provided for the courses of the first two years. At the end of the second year candidates are eligible to transfer to leading metropolitan schools to complete the work of the clinical years of the course. Dartmouth Medical School has bestowed no degrees since 1914.

The Old Order Changeth

"THE AEGIS has made its appearance in a new dress. Instead of the old familiar sheet with its homely wood-cut of Dartmouth as she appeared in the days of yore, and its long, closely-packed columns of society statistics—like all statistics, grossly false—spiced with the customary editorial salaams and witticisms, we find lying before us a neat, unpretentious pamphlet of about thirty pages, tastefully arranged, and bearing evident marks of good mechanical execution. It is with somewhat of regret that we part from old friends, and yet, in this case the full time has arrived, and we were ready to hail the new-comer with joy and kindly greeting. Most heartily do we return our thanks to the class of '68 for the noble manner in which they have inaugurated the change."—The Dartmouth, April, 1867.

Dartmouth Architecture

"It is not generally known that, during the recent trip to this country, the Korean Embassy visited the halls of Old Dartmouth. In fact, the visit was made sub rosa, in order that no reasons of etiquette should prevent the Embassy from seeing the actual state of affairs in the College. A reporter of THE AEGIS had the honor of escorting the Embassy through several of the College buildings.

"Being desirous, first of all, to fill the Asiatics with the awe which the massive architecture of the College buildings is so certain to inspire, the reporter led the way to the most picturesque structure that the college owns—South Hall. Striking a triumphant attitude, he demanded if there was anything in Corea equal to that. The Koreans replied that it was indeed a very large building for a stable, and desired to know how many horses were kept in it. Of this the reporter perhaps knew more than he was willing to state; at any rate, he did not stop to explain the mistake of the noble foreigners; but, hiding his chagrin as best he might, hurried on to Dartmouth Hall, which he hoped might impress them more favorably."—THE AEGIS, 1885.

And Whether Pigs Have Wings

“‘By the bye, what became of the baby?’ said the Cheshire Cat to Alice.

“‘It turned into a pig,’ answered Alice very quietly.

“‘I thought it would,’ said the Cat.

“The Cheshire Cat’s comment might be paralleled by the remarks of many a winter visitor to Hanover. Dress, manners, and appearance too frequently smack of the sty. True, there is an ever-growing sentiment against the sweat-shirt and the corduroy; but it is a sentiment too subtle for expression. The casual visitor who is not acquainted with the ‘tradition’ of slovenliness must be rather disgusted by the sight of greasy sweaters and grizzly chins in our public dining halls. If only a few men take a determined stand in opposition to this condition it will soon cease to be the style ‘to turn into pigs’ for three months of the year.”—Dartmouth Literary Magazine, March, 1911.

O Tempore, O Mores.

"The action of the Interfraternity council yesterday afternoon in voting to throw over the rules adopted last week and going back to the old plan of a one-day season, has met with the approval of the entire college. The fact that the meeting lasted only three minutes, in which time every fraternity showed its hearty approval of the change is significant in itself. The fact demonstrates that the former plan of two weeks was about to prove entirely unsatisfactory. It does not mean ingratitude to the men who drew up the system, but rather the impracticability of the system."—The Dartmouth, Oct. 3, 1910.

Here's Hoping I Get Reed

"The system of drawing rooms, at present in vogue in the College, seems very defective. Draws in Reed are now a matter of pure speculation, run upon the exact principle of a lottery, with the only exception that the cash prizes are not definitely announced. Of late years very much fault has been found, and properly so, with the arrangement pursued. The bonus demanded for the few first choices is continually increasing, and this year has reached a higher limit than ever before. The method is defective, in that all men who have not previously reserved the rooms they already hold are put on the same basis. Some may have already decided to live outside of the dorm, or, if inside, not in Reed. Yet those men that do desire these rooms are placed at the mercy of the remainder, who draw for the only purpose of making money. The original intention of this system was, of course, that the actual competition for rooms should be settled by lots, but under the existing conditions this object is entirely vitiated, and much wrong results. The same system is pursued in the lower classes. A man may draw a room and if he goes through the bare form of paying for it the act is considered sufficient. He then has the right to dispose of the room at any premium to the students of lower classes, and thus debars men from the proper value of their draw. During the present year this plan is in active operation. Juniors are disposing of rooms to freshmen, which they have obtained in this finely managed lottery, and thus excluding sophomores from the real worth of their priority of choice. The sophistry and bare-facedness of the scheme is apparent. The higher the class the better the opportunity for selection, is the proper and just theory, rendered worthless however, by compliance with the bare form. The whole system of bonuses and premiums should be done away with. No man should be allowed to hold a room who does not personally occupy it. If the person drawing number one Reed does not desire it for himself, that draw should be invalidated. No other student should be allowed its use, in any manner. By following out this plan the fates will decide only for those men who really want the rooms, and speculation would be futile. Either the foregoing or some other effective arrangement, needs immediate adoption. At present those men who possess the most money secure the best rooms, and the method of drawing results in nothing but the baldest farce, unjust to the originator of this scheme, unjust to men of small means, and unjust to class rights."—The Dartmouth, May 16, 1884.

Postscripts

Notes of appreciation always have a way of sounding stilted and cold, as a convention which must be followed. But although we dislike their austerity, we frankly admit defeat when it comes to a remedy. Enthusiasm so often sounds like verbosity that we prefer to follow the old traditions founded by former writers of notes in appreciation. Therefore, without further ado, and with the dignity supposed to become a Senior, we sincerely desire to thank all those who in any way have helped to make possible the publication of this book.

Especially do we appreciate the co-operation, advice, and courtesy which we have enjoyed at all times from our printers and engravers, the Howard-Wesson Co., and our photographers, the White Studio.

To Professor Richardson, Mr. Burton Whitman, and Mr. Franklin Collier, all of whom have helped us to raise the Football section this year above the common-place of undergraduate sport writing and cartooning, and to the Editors of the Boston Herald for the loan of their excellent action pictures, we wish to extend the hearty thanks of the entire Board.

We also would thank Dr. Griggs, Professor Watson, Professor Willey, Mr. Rugg, Professor Wellman, and Professor Frey for their aid and advice regarding various aspects of the book.

For our advertisers, without whose support the publication of a book this size and content would have been absolutely impossible, we have only the sincerest thanks. We urge that the advertising pages be read carefully.

Our artists, Ray Ring and Jack Rose, have with their historically sound and artistically excellent wood-cuts given the book a life and vigor for which we cannot thank them too much.

As for the heelers who have done all the drudgery, they deserve sincere praise for their intelligent and consistent work. They have helped the Editors in every way possible in our attempt to publish an accurate and complete annual.

Now for apologies. First, to Mr. A. A. Milne for the shameless shop-lifting of his title, "When We Were Very Young." We have no excuses to offer, except that the charm of the title, especially for the section this year, was hard to resist. At least, our plagiarism extends only to the title, and we hope that if Mr. Milne should ever see the 1926 AEGIS, which we most gravely doubt, he will forgive and forget.

In the Feature section we also have captioned several excerpts from Dartmouth publications with our own application of well-known phrases without using quotation marks. Our excuse here is simply a dislike of flocks of quotation marks perched all over the page.

One more apology. We have exerted every effort this year to make the AEGIS as accurate as possible, but we have no doubt that already someone has found his name or address an untruth much stranger than fiction, or that the chess team has discovered that all their numeral men have not been listed. For these and similar sins which may have been committed, we make humble apology.

The pictures of last year's Varsity Track team, the Freshman Track and Baseball teams, due to unavoidable circumstances, were not available for use in the 1926 AEGIS.

The final copy reached the printers on April sixth, making it impossible to include in the records any college activities or honors later than this date.

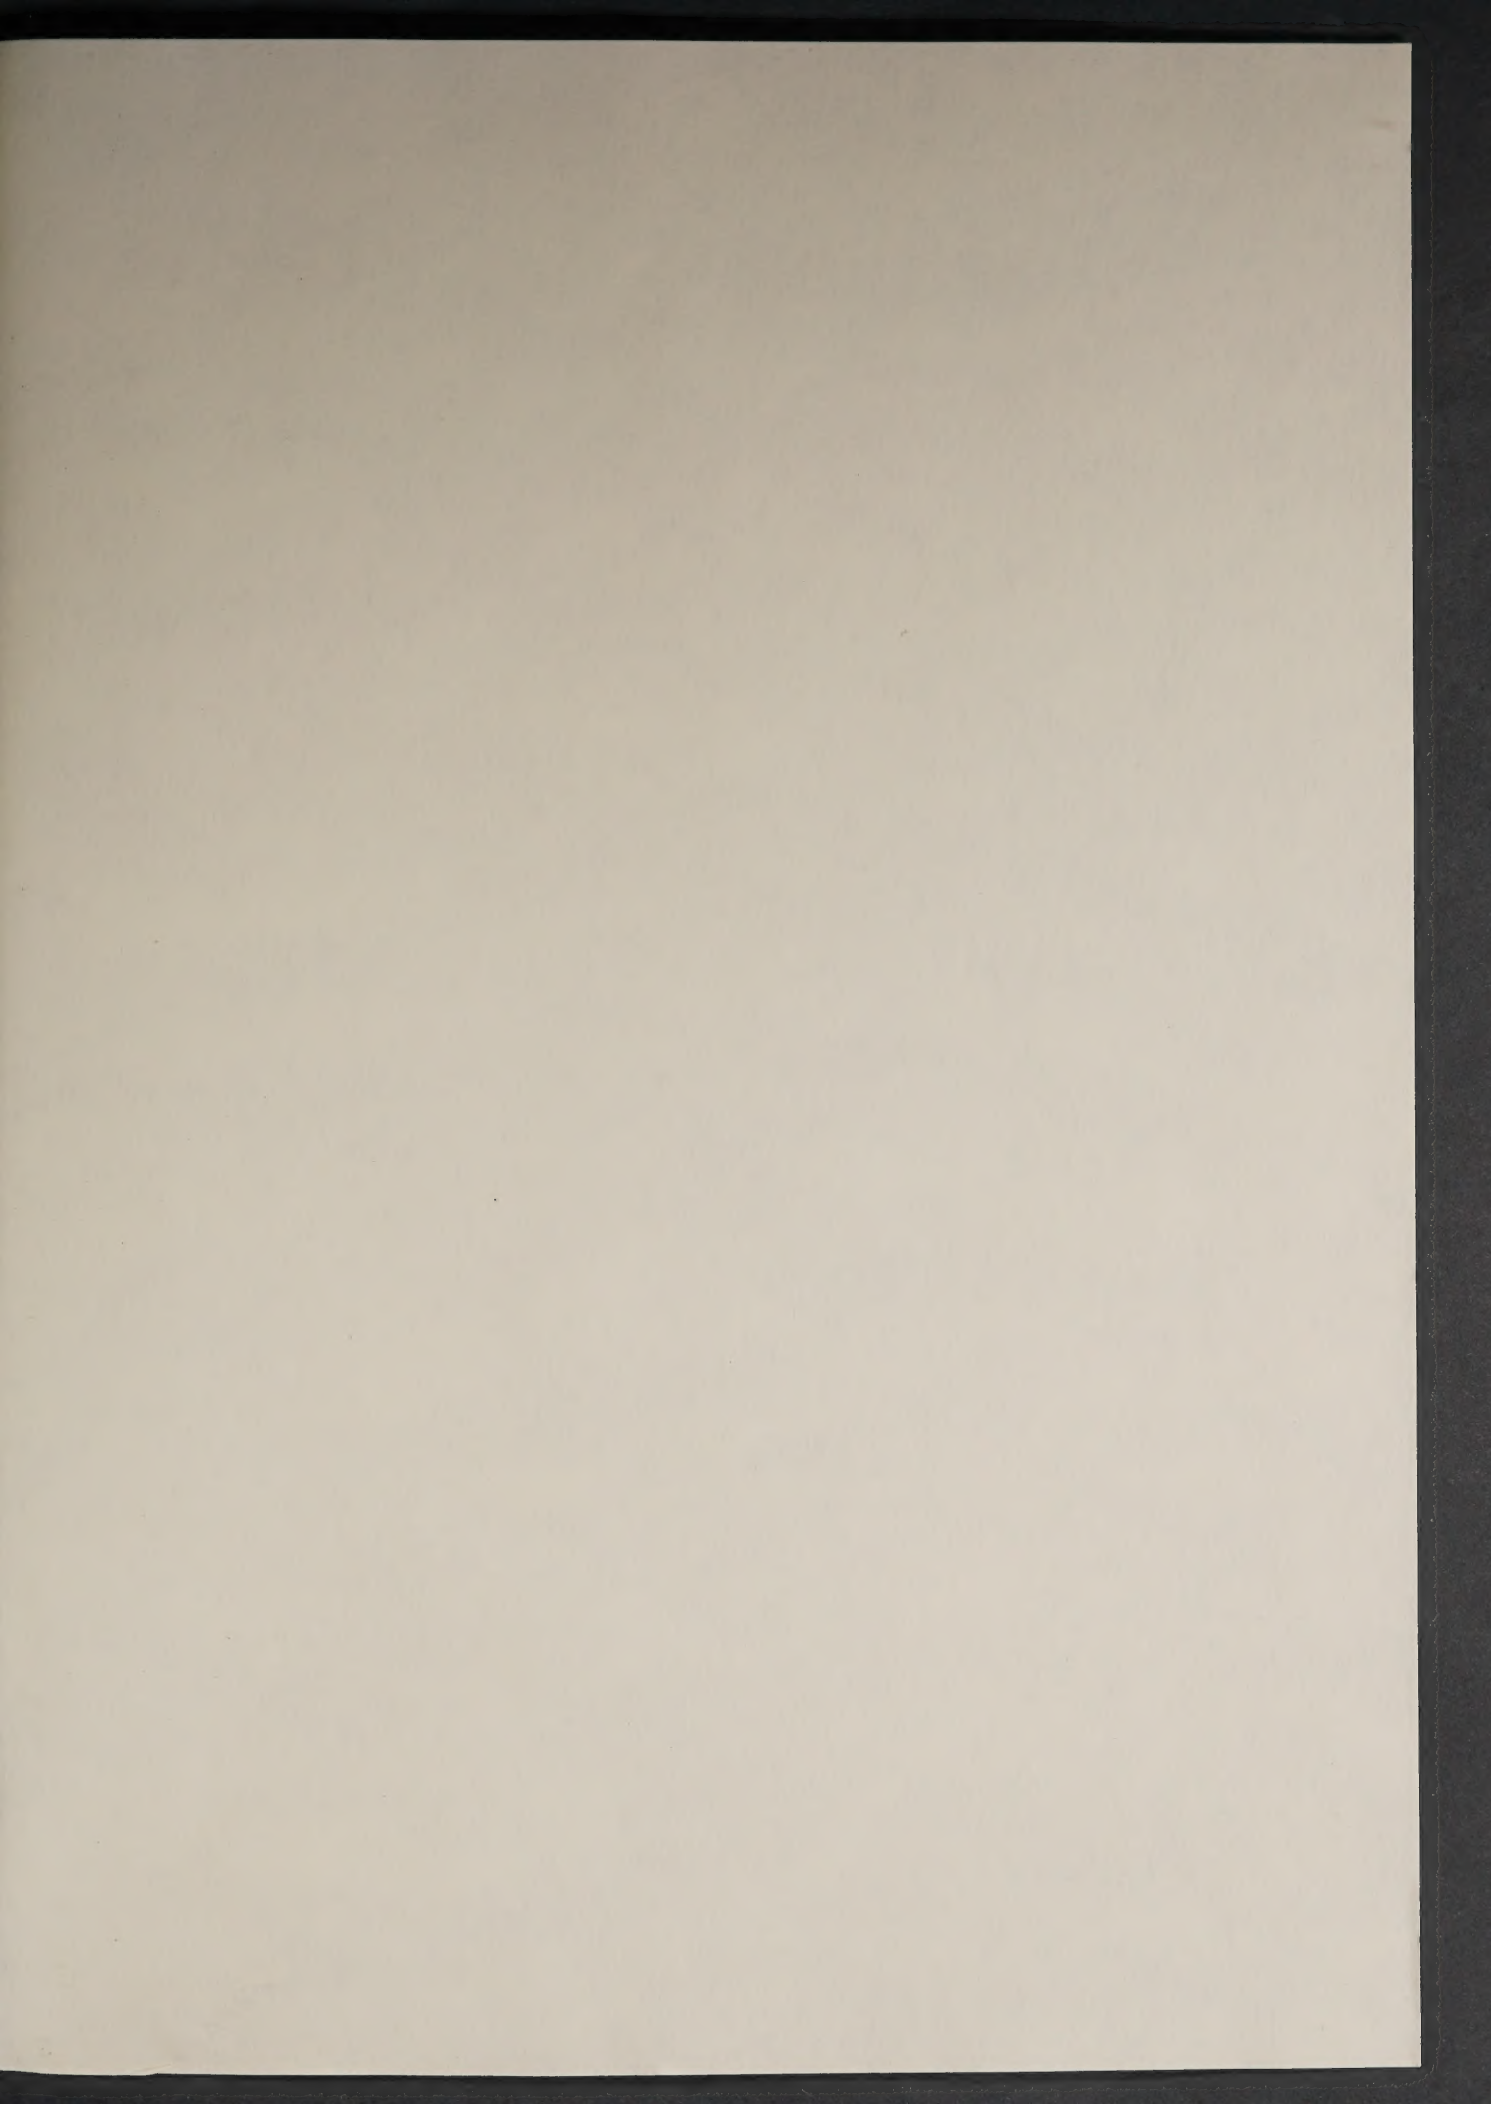

Just one more postscript, which is to us the most interesting of all. A few weeks ago, in looking through volumes of the AEGIS published in the seventies, we discovered that Professor C. D. Adams, to whom this book is dedicated, was Editor of his Junior AEGIS just fifty years ago. This fact was unknown when the first part of the book, including the Dedicatory pages, was sent to the printers. The coincidence, we feel, is a happy one.
